

Reckless Driving Laid to Attorney

H. B. Ellison, said to be a Los Angeles attorney, was today charged with reckless driving in a complaint sworn to by M. C. McCarthy, of this city. The complaint followed a collision on South Main street Wednesday. Ellison is said to be a member of counsel for the plaintiff in a $50,000 damage suit recently filed here as the result of the Newport harbor drowning disaster June 8.

SAYS BIG ISSUE IN RACE STAND ON KU KLUX

"The contest for assemblyman resolves itself in a question of whether the people of this county want to elect the Ku Klux Klan candidate," today declared S. C. Hartranft of Pullerton, a candidate for the Republican nomination for assemblyman.

"Setting aside all other considerations, that is the issue. Will the assemblyman be responsible to the Ku Klux Klan or to the people of Orange county? It is as plain a question as was ever raised in a campaign. W. B. Allen of Anaheim has been pointed out by the district attorney of this county as being the Ku Klux Klan candidate. Mr. Allen has not denied it. In the northern part of the county there is no question about it; Mr. Allen is the recognized K. K. K. candidate.

Cutter Fails to Find Rum Ships

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—After cruising up and down the California coast for three days, the coast guard cutter Shawnee returned to San Francisco without having sighted any of the alleged rum-running ships it was sent out to seek. Coast guard headquarters had information that three British steamers had come down from Canada recently laden with thousands of cases of whisky and other liquor, which they were getting ashore by means of gasoline launches and fishing boats. In the last day or two they were said to have been doing an unusually brisk business under cover of the fogs.

Bandit Conner's Trial Date Set

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—William Conner, alias "Big Bill," the last of the notorious "California Daylighters," will face what probably will be the last chapter in his wild career September 22. The candid leader appeared before Superior Judge Roche and his trial on a charge of robbery growing out of the $100,000 Honston-Gilmore jewelry company holdup was set for that date. The defendant also has a second charge of robbery pending against him, the holdup of the Eureka valley branch of the Bank of Italy. Conner was captured in a Sixth street hotel several weeks ago after he had been wounded in a gun battle with the police.

Foreclosure Sale Land Involved In Receivership Plea

Claiming that he is prevented from entering the premises he recently foreclosed in connection with a mortgage, and that the property is facing serious depreciation, Frank C. Eisenhauer today filed suit in the superior court here asking for appointment of a receiver for seven acres situated on the Anaheim-Olive boulevard.

The suit was brought against Frederick Barthels, former owner of the ranch, upon which Eisenhauer foreclosed the mortgage, and which he then purchased at foreclosure sale. Barthels, it is said, has until February 5, 1925, to redeem the property.

Meantime, according to Eisenhauer, Barthels, who still has possession of the ranch, refuses to permit Eisenhauer to look after the premises, or the buildings and tools upon it, which are said to be lying idle.

Barthels also is alleged to refuse to permit the leasing of the premises for revenue, Eisenhauer claiming that it could be leased to a certain citrus by-products concern.

Attorney W. F. Menton, Santa Ana, represents Eisenhauer.

PHONE SERVICE IS HALTED BY BLAZE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Fire starting in the shed in rear of an unoccupied house on Valencia street, just south of Belmont avenue, caused about $200 property damage and temporarily put telephone and light service out of commission. Four sheds were burned, two in the rear of Clark street, and several more were threatened by the flames which had gained considerable headway prior to the arrival of the firemen.

Discovering the fire Battalion Chief W. A. Wintemute tried to report it to fire alarm headquarters, but the telephone line was put out of service by the fire just as the telephone operator connected the fire chief with the alarm station. As a result, some time elapsed before a report of the fire was made to the department.

The fire, Acting Fire Marshal W. C. Berkholz said, probably started from small boys playing with matches in the unoccupied shed. Attaches of the fire prevention bureau, however, were unsuccessful in learning the identity of the boys.

Soft Drink Man Gets Booze Fine

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Frank Moore, charged with the illegal possession of liquor, in a soft drink parlor at 2188 Market street, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Kerrigan and was fined $100. Moore, a structural iron worker, said he was not employed as bartender in the place but volunteered his services to help out in a rush.

KU KLUX KLAN IS OPPOSED BY DAWES

a civilized community.

"Our constitution stands for religious tolerance and freedom. This happy country has never been through a religious war such as those which devastated Europe in the past and brought untold misery to millions of its inhabitants. We have progressed in civilization far beyond that position to inject religious and racial issues in politics is contrary to the letter and spirit of the constitution of the United States."

"I have told you why I am opposed to the Klan. I say into your hearts and consciences 'think it over calmly. There is no acrimony in conscience, whatever there may be in the mind.'"

Answers Questions

Before delivering his speech, Dawes had read two questions put to him by Pattangall, who has been touring the state against the Klan. They were:

"Do you believe the Ku Klux Klan fills a useful place in the life of the United States?" and "Do you agree to the proposition set up by Republican managers of Maine, that a vote for Klan controlled candidate, is a vote for Coolidge and Dawes?"

To these questions Dawes made answers:

"The questions of Mr. Pattangall, which appear in the press, are the familiar 'trick' questions of the ordinary politician. They are not the cause of my statement on the subject today."

JUDGE YIELDS TO 'BABY VAMP' EYES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Miss Princess Page, 18, co-ed at the University of Southern California, won first prize in a recent bathing girl beauty contest at Long Beach.

Then she won another contest, and before a stern and critical judge who in the end capitulated to her charms and the magnetism of her rough "baby vamp" eyes. Arrested for speeding by Officers Ben Martin and Jack Theuer Miss Page was arraigned before Police Judge Gaffey of Burlingame.

"Twenty-five dollars fine," said the judge.

"Well," gulped the beauty, her eyes slowly filling with tears. "I'll—"

"Better let me do the talking," the judge continued. "I'll suspend the fine."

Miss Page, more radiant than ever, shook hands all around, even with the arresting officers, and departed.

Garden Grove News

GARDEN GROVE, Aug. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Adland and daughter, Mrs. N. B. Hinson, and granddaughter, Barbara Jane, who are visiting at the Adland home this week accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Irvine German, enjoyed a swim in the Huntington Beach plunge Monday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Reiker of Los Angeles, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Kelsey Sunday.

Mrs. C. R. Simmons, Mrs. J. W. Hall and Mrs. C. L. Crist visited Mrs. J. R. Rutledge in Brea Thursday.

Mrs. Golden and two children, Ralph and Alora, of Fullerton, spent Tuesday and Wednesday at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. L. F. Starey.

Garfield Allen and family and William Lehnhardt and children, accompanied by Miss Celestia Churchill, Miss Bertha Goff and Miss Matilda Kribbs, left Wednesday morning for a few days outing in West Cajon Pass.

Mrs. Rollin Rossett and two children, Margaret and Frank, Mrs. Irvine German and son Irvine Jr., Mrs. W. M. Adland and Mrs. Noel B. Hinson and daughter, Barbara Jane, spent Tuesday in Long Beach.

Miss Norma Larson celebrated her seventeenth birthday anniversary when she entertained with a lawn party at the home of her parents on Stanford avenue. The yard was brightened with electric lights and numerous games made the time pass quickly. Delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. A beautiful birthday cake with white icing and pink and white candles was the center of attraction. Enjoying the affair of the evening were the Misses Magdalene and Frances Fries of Los Angeles, Birdie Baker, Mildred Dunlap, Euba Azlin, Helen Snow, Katherine Kirven, Cynthia Kirven, Inis Russell, Helen Knox, Velma King and Frances Dungan; Marion Humphress, Wallace Geren, Tracy Dilly, Leighton Phillips, Rodney Collins, Louis Nanier, Milton Chaffee, Harry Munz, Mary Crist, Kenneth Harris, Harold Porter, Orville King and Clyde Collins.

"Dad's Love Gone,
Girl Seeks Death

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Miss Frances Potts, 21, swallowed poison in an effort to end her life in her room at the Alcazar hotel, 326 O'Farrell street, because she believed her father did not love her any more. After she had drained the poison, she telephoned the hotel clerk and told him what she had done. He had her removed to the Central Emergency hospital, where physicians said her condition was serious.

"My father married a second time and since then he has not shown his old affection for me," was the explanation the girl gave hospital attaches. She came to San Francisco a week ago from Omaha, Neb.

S. F. DEFENSE DAY PROGRAM OUTLINED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Tentative plans for the observation of Defense day in San Francisco, on September 12, were completed at a joint meeting of the citizen's committee and regular army officers attached to the Ninth Corps Area headquarters at the Presidio.

It was definitely decided to center the participation in the Civic Center, which will be blocked off on the particular day, to permit the committee to properly stage its program. The public will be permitted to watch the events from without the roped-off areas, but only those taking part in the Defense test will be allowed within.

In reality, Defense day will have two major features to its program. First, the enrollment of 35,000 men to fill the sixty-five units of the Organized Reserve Corps in San Francisco; and, second, the staging of an exposition of warcraft, which will show the progressive steps of mobilization and operation of an army from the induction into the service to the front line trenches. All sorts of warcraft, such as airplanes, chemical warfare instruments, guns, trenches, tanks, field hospitals, cook and bake houses, will be shown.

The exposition will start at Grove street and Van Ness avenue and the exhibits will line the north side of Grove street to a point opposite the Civic Auditorium, main entrance, then through the center of the Civic Center Plaza north to Fulton street, and through the Civic Center and down Fulton street to Market street, with exhibits being placed on both sides of the thoroughfare.

Prisoners Stage Drinking Bout

SAN JOSE, Aug. 23.—A "drinking bout" with Jack Murphy, pugilist, as master of ceremonies, was staged in the city jail here. Boisterous hilarity emanating from the cell led to an investigation by Police Captain J. C. Hines, who found Murphy passing a bottle of liquor to prisoners who had evidently taken more than they could handle. Hines seized the bottle, which he claims contains enough liquor to serve as evidence to support a charge of unlawful possession. Murphy was picked up the preceding day and was being held on vagrancy charges.

The vacant lot south of the library will be located a massive army camp to house part of the regular 30th Infantry, together with a model hospital. Polk street, between Grove and McAllister streets will be utilized for drilling of crack regiments such as the California Grays, League of the Cross Cadets and regular army outfits. On the City Hall steps the 80th Infantry and the Coast Artillery bands will play.

Recruits Sought

The inferior of the Auditorium will be utilized for registration of the 35,000 recruits sought for the day. The recruit will merely be expected to join the army for one day and his only duty will be to accompany a group of others in charge of a noncommissioned officer who will escort them about the exposition explaining the exhibits. He will then be dismissed.

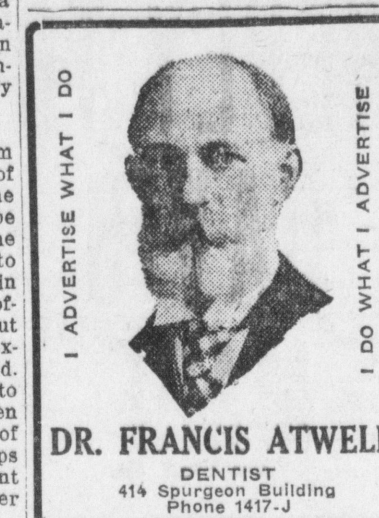

Plans call for the Auditorium to open at 9 a. m. and to remain open until late in the afternoon. All of the 2100 organized reserve corps officers are expected to be present to aid in the enrollment and other proceedings of the day.

A WORD OF COMFORT
Our hands can touch and our eyes can see only the material physical world which surrounds us. The soul of man reaches on beyond and lays hold upon the eternal God Himself. You grasp the hand of the Lord and step by step up the pathway of life—then through the clouds at what has looked like the mountain-top. Then Paradise is yours with dear ones ever near.

Notice of funeral will be announced later by Smith & Tutthill.

OCTOGENARIAN RUES FLAPPER OF TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Annie Bond Bradstreet, 86 years old, likes the girls of her generation better than the flappers of today.

"They weren't so boisterous a couple of decades ago," she says, and she ought to know, for Mrs. Bradstreet was out in the social and business world for years, having come to California way back in '74, when San Francisco was but a little hamlet.

Congratulated by Friends
All day on her last birthday friends were dropping in to her little flat at 1146 Oak street to present the day's felicitations. That night quite a group gathered to surprise the spry little octogenarian. Included in the number of informal guests were members of the New England Colony of Women, an organization to which Mrs. Bradstreet has belonged for many years.

"My husband, who was Israel Rae Bradstreet, founder of the Bradstreet Commercial Agency, and I came to San Francisco so many years ago," Mrs. Bradstreet said, "that I scarcely recognize the present city. There were nothing but board sidewalks in those days and the town was very little compared to today."

News Briefs

The Michigan Association of Southern California is announcing the annual fall picnic of all Michigan people for Saturday, September 20, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles.

The Westminster Pioneers have extended an invitation to the Orange County Historical society to join them in their annual picnic and reunion to be held all day Saturday, August 30, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, under the auspices of the Missouri State Society of Southern California.

Persons who ever lived in Missouri are being invited to a great picnic reunion to be held all day Saturday, August 30, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, under the auspices of the Missouri State Society of Southern California.

"Business is picking up" at the First National bank's new building, according to the elevator operators, who kept a count of passengers riding on their cars between the hours of 10 a. m. and 11 a. m. today. The count showed that 120 persons rode on one of the cars and 104 on the other. "We don't keep count of the ones coming down," one of the operators stated, "because we figure that everything that goes up is bound to come down."

Elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of a big crowd at Seal Beach tomorrow at which time the visitors will be entertained by the Royal Hawaiian orchestra of Los Angeles, according to Roy Miller, chairman of the Booster club committee in charge of the program. The band will play at the foot of Main street pier. The concert in the afternoon will start at 2:30 o'clock and the evening concert at 7 o'clock, Miller said.

WIFE DIVORCED FROM WEALTHY LUMBERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Florence Holberton Slade, 217 Franklin street, was granted a divorce by Superior Judge Griffin from Franklin M. Slade, wealthy lumber broker, now living in Los Angeles. Mrs. Slade is the daughter of George C. Holberton, formerly general manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

Mrs. Slade testified that her husband deserted her May 4, 1923, while they were living at Hollywood. Slade suddenly told his wife upon their return from a dinner party that he did not love her, that he had never loved her, and never would love her, and that he had made up his mind to live apart from her, it was testified.

Mrs. Katherine May Holberton, mother of Mrs. Slade, corroborated her daughter's testimony.

Attorney Arthur L. Erb, representing Mrs. Slade, presented for the approval of Judge Griffin a property settlement made in Los Angeles in October, 1923. In accordance with the terms of this agreement, Judge Griffin granted Mrs. Slade $100 a month alimony until October, 1928, and $25 a month for the support of her baby daughter until the same date. The amount will then be increased to $40 a month. When the child is 15 years old the amount will be increased to $50 a month.

Suit Unanswered
Slade made no answer to the suit and was not represented in court. The wedding of the Slades at Trinity Church in San Francisco September 6, 1921, was an event of wide interest in social circles. Slade, a Stanford graduate, is the son of S. E. Slade, wealthy lumberman.

TALBERT IS SUPPORTED BY MEN OF RIVERSIDE COUNTY

A statement signed by eight well known residents of Riverside county backing T. B. Talbert of Orange county for the Republican nomination for state senator reached this county this morning and was given to the newspapers of the county.

"This statement, coming as it does from men of the prominence of these men, is a complete answer to those who are endeavoring to create sentiment against me because of the agreement entered into years ago by men, most of whom are now dead," said Talbert. The statement, together with the names of the signers, follows: "We the undersigned residents of Riverside County hereby endorse T. B. Talbert of Orange County for the Republican nomination for State Senator from the district including Riverside, Orange and Imperial Counties.

We can see no reason why the voters of this generation should be bound by any mythical agreement made twenty-five years ago relative to the state senatorship.

We know T. B. Talbert to be a man who, by reason of experience, character and personality, is exceptionally well fitted to serve the entire district.

Raisins Shipped To Europe Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—When the cargo of agricultural products which left here today aboard the Panama Pacific line steamer Manchuria reaches its destination in Europe there will be enough raisins for every man, woman and child in the British Isles to have one.

Two thousand tons of the tasty fruit are included in the 6000 tons of products, which includes dried fruit of all kinds, vegetables and 10,000 cases of Hawaiian pineapples.

S. F. FUR FLEET VESSEL LOST IN NORTH

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Caught in the deadly ice flows in the Bering straits off Point Barrow, the gasoline schooner Arctic of the Liebes fur fleet was crushed and with a valuable cargo of furs, is a total loss, according to a message received here.

Reporting the loss from Point Barrow, Captain John Bertoni, whose home is at 4095 Army street, this city, said that the twenty men of the crew were safe. Officials of the company, in the absence of specific information, say it is probable that the men were cast ashore on a barren part of the coast and worked their way to Point Barrow, the nearest outpost of civilization. All of the crew shipped from San Francisco.

The Arctic, which was built staunchly to withstand the pressure of the ice flows, sailed out of the Golden Gate on April 15 for its annual fur trading expedition.

The motor ship Lady Kindersley, owned by the Hudson Bay Company, was abandoned by her crew of twenty men twenty-five miles from Point Barrow, which is fifty miles east of Point Barrow, where the Arctic was wrecked. The vessel had gone north on its annual trading cruise. Its home port is Vancouver, B. C.

The Boxer, a steamer owned and operated by the United States Bureau of Education to maintain schools in the north, is standing by to take the Lady Kindersley's crew off the ice. It will take the crew and the crew of the Arctic to Nome, Captain S. T. L. Whitlam, master of the Boxer, announced.

CLASH OVER GIRL BRINGS SHOOTING

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—While John Kotcheles lay in a critical condition at the Alameda county hospital, facing death or life as a helpless cripple, as a result of a gunshot wound in the back, Oakland and San Francisco police were searching for Thomas Thomopoulos, his cousin, who is said to have fired the shot during a quarrel over attentions paid to a girl friend.

The injured man was shot by Thomopoulos at Eighty-fourth avenue and the Southern Pacific tracks after they had quarreled over Kotcheles' stealing his cousin's first girl. Miss Virginia Frates of 1255 Eighty-seventh avenue.

In a room occupied by Thomopoulos in San Francisco police found the following note: "I am going to kill John Kotcheles because he stole my first girl. Then I am going to kill myself. I would do that now only I want to let his wife of my goodness. I am the unhappiest Greek in the state."

The note was signed but addressed to no one. Treated at the Oakland Emergency hospital surgeons found a bullet lodged against Kotcheles' spine. The injured man, 36 years of age, resides at 1265 Eighty-fourth avenue. He and Thomopoulos, according to the police, are employed in a San Francisco furniture factory.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Harold L. Kelsey, Chicago banker, returning from Egypt, says the Egyptian government is planning the excavation of three Egyptian tombs said to be 10,000 years old.

The excavations are to be made next year and the government has hopes of finding ivory and gold furniture, Kelsey says.

J. R. PAINE IS SUMMONED ON NATAL DAY

James Robert Paine, 60, resident of Santa Ana for forty-nine years, died suddenly at his home at 1818 North Broadway shortly before 7 a. m. today. Death probably was caused by acute indigestion, his physician said.

Today would have been Mr. Paine's birthday, he having been born in Alabama August 23, 1864.

Mr. Paine had been in ill health for several days and retired early last night. He called to his wife shortly before 7 o'clock this morning but before she could get to his bedroom he was dead. Mrs. Paine was on the second floor of the residence at the time.

Mr. Paine is survived by his widow, Mrs. Adelaide Paine; a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Paine, and a son, James Robert Paine Jr., both of this city; a sister-in-law, Miss Elizabeth Easton, who resided at the Paine home; two nieces, Miss Ethel Phillips of Santa Ana and Mrs. Nannie Thompson, of Tustin, and a nephew, Ernest Crozier Phillips, of this city.

Funeral arrangements had been announced by the family today.

Mr. Paine had been a resident of Santa Ana exactly forty-nine years yesterday, having arrived here with Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Paine, his mother and father, August 23, 1875.

He had been active in real estate here for forty-two years and only retired from active practice about six years ago.

Burglary Suspect In Guilty Plea

Jack Smith, 35, Hollywood painter, today pleaded guilty to a burglary charge and asked for probation.

Smith "speeded up" prosecution in his case by appearing before Justice Jack Landell and waiving his preliminary hearing, then going before Judge Z. B. West in the superior court and entering his plea of guilty. Attorney John B. Nichols represented him.

Judge West set the hearing on probation for Friday September 5 at 9:30 a. m.

Smith was arrested after an exciting chase through the Santa Ana business district after the alleged looting of a North Main street rooming house Wednesday.

ALLEGED 'VAG' SENTENCED.
John Frawley, charged by the city police with vagrancy, was today serving a sentence of ten days in the county jail, given him by Jack Landell, acting city recorder. James F. Cavanaugh, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to serve thirty days by the same court today.

Fire fighters in Colorado called

PALMER LAKE, Colo., Aug. 21.—An appeal for every available fireman to the state to save the summer resort town of Estabrook from a forest fire which is raging up South Platt canyon beyond control of the small crew of rangers there was sent out by Roy Dupree, forest service lookout on Devil's Head early this afternoon.

Dupree said that from all indications this is the worst of a series of fires which have struck the Devil's Head district within the past few days.

SENATOR JOHNSON ATTACKS CHANDLER AND HENCHMEN IN HOT POLITICAL STATEMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—"Every progressive candidate who seeks to maintain, preserve and protect the progressive and humanitarian institutions of California and who stands for the people alone is opposed by Chandler and the Better America Federation and Governor Richardson. The Progressive candidates, representing humanity and owing allegiance to the people alone are entitled to the support of those who regenerated California, of all progressives and all who believe in popular rule."

Thus in its closing paragraph U. S. Senator Cram W. Johnson summarizes a statement issued by him today.

Warns Youth
"The older citizens of California," he says, "understand our political history and they will make no mistake in next Tuesday's primary. The younger and newer voters may be befuddled. Let us forget, and that a true decision may be made August 26, recall the story of California's deliverance from political bondage in 1910 and those who endeavored to prevent it, and then our progressive and humanitarian advance, and those who have contested every forward step."

"When the state broke the shackles of corporate control and an effective railroad commission undertook fair regulation of public service corporations; when a workmen's compensation law sought justice and rehabilitation for broken humanity; when the eight hour law for women undertook to do for weak women what organization had done for men; when a minimum wage commission was created that a mere living wage might be accorded women who toil; when an immigration and housing commission was designed to give decent and sanitary conditions to toilers; when children were protected by laws which prevented their exploitation by greed; when a government which had been the mere tool of crooked politicians and crooked big business was made responsive to the people alone, Harry Chandler and the Los Angeles Times abused and denounced the men and women who were doing the work and bitterly fought each milestone in the progressive path. In the intervening years, aided by the so-called Better America Federation, in season and out, they have continued the assault upon the humanitarian agencies of California, and have ever sought to cripple and destroy them. By a political 'fluke' they gained in the last state election the administrative part of the government. There remains for the protection of the people now only the legislative department."

"Under the mask of 'economy' speaking with the voice of the governor of the state, Chandler, his 'Times' and the Better America Federation endeavored in the last legislature to accomplish their design of crippling and destroying our humanitarian institutions and taking over wholly California's government. There was no real economy. The state's expenditures for this biennial period exceed by more than $20,000,000 any other biennial period in our history. What economies were then practiced, and they were few and wholly inconsequential to the taxpayer, were cruelly crippling to our great humanitarian institutions. If it is doubted that the assault was made upon the effectiveness of the railroad commission, ask its chairman, Clyde Seavey, a faithful public official. Will J. French, one of the authors of the workmen's compensation law and the first member of the commission, tells the story of the inability of the state to do its duty to the maimed and the injured. Paul Scharrenberg and his colleagues of the immigration and housing commission have cried out against the injustice and destruction of their good work. The minimum wage commission is without adequate support. The state turns from helpless blind and deaf and dumb little children, and the institution maintained for their education and the amelioration of the affliction denies them admission. Special privileges and exemptions are granted to corporations again stalk arrogantly through the capitol. These and many like results were the fruits of the policy falsely named 'economy' but which was in reality the policy of special privilege. The policy was the Chandler-Better America Federation policy. It is the policy simply of exploiting public service corporations who again rule a part of California's government and wish to dominate it all. Every candidate for the legislature today favoring that policy is the candidate of Chandler and the Better America Federation, and their election is favored by Governor Richardson."

GIRLS' DORMITORY DECLARED UNSAFE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The fifty-five girls houses in the dormitory of the California Girls' Training School at Alameda are in danger of death by fire, according to representations made to the Alameda city council by Fire Chief W. T. Steinmetz and State Fire Marshal J. W. Stevens. The officials declared that the building is a veritable firetrap and that if a fire should start in it the escape of the inmates would be cut off within five minutes.

City Manager Clifton E. Hickok corroborated the statement in a report to the council and recommended that the use of the two upper floors of the building as a dormitory be discontinued and the girls housed elsewhere on the premises of the school.

The fire chief explained that the building in question is a frame structure, forty-six years old, and that there is no adequate provision for escape from the floors used as dormitories.

Was He an impostor? He was if He did not really believe himself to be the Messiah; but an impostor could not have impersonated the Messiah, even if an impostor had been fool-hardy enough to attempt it.

Was Jesus deluded? Could one acting under a delusion have said what He said, done what He did, and been what He was? It was a revelation of Himself; He was what He claimed to be.

Impostors are numerous and not a few are deluded, but the impostors have not been able to practice imposition long, and those who are themselves deluded do not deceive others. The Jews had been waiting for thousands of years for a Messiah; Christ answered the description given in advance and fulfilled the prophecies spoken of Him. "No one else had done so, and no one has done so since."

Christ's Universality
Even the most learned have not been able to lift themselves into the same comprehension of Christ as teachers. They may fit into an age or into the thought of a race or of a locality for awhile, but no on except Christ has been both universal and eternal—why, if He was just a man, whether an impostor, a deluded visionary, or an honest imitator.

And the harvest is ripe now, as in the days when Christ was among men. Every day, everywhere the "fields" are white already to harvest, and yet men rush to and fro in a frantic search for peace, when the Prince of Peace stands at their door ready to succor all.

The rich seek out all the inviting resorts and secluded retreats in search of rest, ignoring the great physician whose touch is more healing than the surf, or the breezes that woo the weary to mountain or sea. His is the only yoke that is easy; His is the only burden that is light.

Here we have sublime truths lifted up and made visible to all the world and for all time as the result of a seemingly accidental conversation with a sinful woman of Samaria. No novelist could invent the story—no writer of fiction would dare to introduce truths in such a way.

Was Jesus an impostor? The questions of the woman also brought out an announcement of Christ's Messiahship. She said, "I know that Messiah cometh, which is called Christ: when he is come, he will tell us all things. Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee am he."

MYSTERY SHOT IS CAUSE OF ARRESTS

FRESNO, Aug. 23.—Two women and two men were arrested after O. G. Cervelli appeared at police headquarters and announced that some one had fired a shot at him at 3432 Ventura avenue, the address of Clifford K. Shorter. The police went to the house and arrested Clara Shaw, 27, Eva Keyes, 25, and F. Beaumont, 21, on charges of being drunk, and Ed Shaw, 21, brother of Clara Shaw, on a charge of disturbing the peace.

According to the police, Cervelli, who has been paying attention to Clara Shaw, had an argument with her outside the house at 3432 Ventura that night and struck her in the nose. A shot was then fired. Ed Shaw is said to have fired the shot.

California's government. There was no real economy. The state's expenditures for this biennial period exceed by more than $20,000,000 any other biennial period in our history. What economies were then practiced, and they were few and wholly inconsequential to the taxpayer, were cruelly crippling to our great humanitarian institutions. If it is doubted that the assault was made upon the effectiveness of the railroad commission, ask its chairman, Clyde Seavey, a faithful public official. Will J. French, one of the authors of the workmen's compensation law and the first member of the commission, tells the story of the inability of the state to do its duty to the maimed and the injured. Paul Scharrenberg and his colleagues of the immigration and housing commission have cried out against the injustice and destruction of their good work. The minimum wage commission is without adequate support. The state turns from helpless blind and deaf and dumb little children, and the institution maintained for their education and the amelioration of the affliction denies them admission. Special privileges and exemptions are granted to corporations again stalk arrogantly through the capitol. These and many like results were the fruits of the policy falsely named 'economy' but which was in reality the policy of special privilege. The policy was the Chandler-Better America Federation policy. It is the policy simply of exploiting public service corporations who again rule a part of California's government and wish to dominate it all. Every candidate for the legislature today favoring that policy is the candidate of Chandler and the Better America Federation, and their election is favored by Governor Richardson."

Wedding Breakfast Is Served In New Home
Of Happy Couple

A high noon wedding yesterday in Costa Mesa was of much interest to Santa Ana friends of the happy pair, Miss Elsie L. Tower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton H. Tower and Fred W. Opp, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Opp and a rising young architect of the community.

The Tower home at the Mesa was beautifully garlanded with flowers in honor of the nuptials and in the living room, a graceful archway of ferns was fashioned as a setting for the ceremony. Just previous to the rites a short song program was given by Carl Opp of this city who sang "I Love You Truly" and "Perfect Day," both by Carrie Jacobs Bond. Miss Lovina Opp played a beautiful accompaniment on the guitar.

Miss Tower was beautifully gowned in soft ivory satin veiled with lace and carried a great cluster of Cecil Brunner buds. In charming contrast was the dainty yellow organza frock of her sister and honor maid, Miss Edith Tower whose flowers were pale yellow pompon dahlias.

The impressively beautiful double ring ceremony was employed, the Rev. John H. Engle reading the service. Harry Opp assisted his brother as best man. Twenty-five members of the two families were present to witness the ceremony and later were conducted to the beautiful new home which Mr. Opp recently completed for his bride on Orange avenue, Costa Mesa.

There with all the attractive new appointments of the home, a daintily appetizing wedding breakfast was served ere the happy young couple departed on their honeymoon to be spent in the mountains.

Word was received in Santa Ana this morning from Mr. and Mrs. E. O. McClure of South Artesia street, that they had arrived safely in Bozeman, Mont., where they will visit with Ray and C. E. Ansell of Santa Ana, who are spending the summer on their ranch. The McClures, who are accompanied by their two children have been away five weeks on a motoring trip that took them into Canada and Washington. They will go through Yellowstone National park before returning home.

Mrs. Rose Helme with her daughters and grand-children motored down from Hollywood recently to attend a birthday party given to honor Miss Rozella Hasty by her aunt, Mrs. W. Nichol of 306 Garfield street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Armstrong of 1008 North Broadway with their daughters and grand-daughter, the Misses Berta and Ruth Armstrong and Margaret Tedford, are enjoying a week or more at Santa Catalina Island planning to return late next week.

R. W. McKnight, display manager of the Rankin store, is now at his home, 1414 Bush street, recuperating from a serious operation undergone about two weeks ago at Santa Ana Community hospital. While he is doing splendidly it will be several weeks yet before he will be able to resume his duties at the store.

Paul Talbott, an employee of Fred Rice & Son, 403 West Fourth street, is leaving tomorrow via Southern Pacific for Des Moines, Iowa, on a business and pleasure trip of about three weeks. During his visit Mr. Talbott will attend the wedding of his sister in Des Moines.

Mrs. Hantsbarger of 914 West Pine street has just returned from a lengthy visit with relatives in various states of the middle west.

Mrs. Harry Kendall, daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Kendall of 311 Cypress street, who has been visiting at the Kendall home for about six weeks, returned today via Southern Pacific to her home in Oakland, Cal.

Edward Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Blake, 1310 South Bristol street, who has been spending his vacation at the home of his parents, returned Wednesday to Chandler, Arizona and later will probably enter the University of Arizona at Tucson.

Mrs. H. Goodwin and Mrs. R. H. Chapin and daughter Leah are expected home today from San Juan Hot Springs where they have been for about ten days.

Mrs. Cood Adams who has been at Balboa for a week is expected to return today.

Miss Grace Ozment, a member of the girls Sunday school class of Spurgeon Memorial church, gave a delightful lawn party last night at her home, 1213 North Ross street, the guests being members of her class and the boys' class of the church. Games were played on the lawn, and refreshments including watermelon were served. Among the entertainments of the evening was a taffy pull.

Notice, specially to members of the Christian church. Dr. Royal J. Dye will deliver a very important address at the Christian church, Sixth and Broadway, Sunday evening at 7:30. Don't miss this great treat.

Old Colored Mammy
Showers Presents
From Carpet Bag

Just such an old colored "mammy" as she knew in her childhood days in Texas, yesterday proffered many delightful gifts to Miss Pearl Kimball, guest of honor at a kitchen shower presented by her sister, Mrs. Jack Hill, formerly Miss Marian Kimball and herself a bride of only a few months.

Mrs. Hill had asked a group of her sister's closest friends to spend the enjoyable afternoon at her home, 210 North Van Ness street and provided them with tea towels to be hemmed and initiated for Miss Kimball's rapidly growing stock of household linens. After the little towels had been completed it was declared that a prize would be given to the one doing the neatest work and Mrs. Norman Walker was fortunate enough to receive a beautifully embroidered guest towel.

It was while Mrs. Hill was engaged with her hostesses duties that the old mammy made her appearance, knocking at the door and demanding a place as a maid. What matter that Mammy was fashioned from a dress form? She was a very clever creation of Mrs. Hill's fancy and, propelled through the doorway by one of the guests, was most life-like.

The quaint old carpet-bag which she carried was presented to the honor guest who discovered its interesting bulges to be gifts of kitchenware for her new home so soon to be established. "Mammy" in her gay yellow dress and bandanna, served to emphasize the attractive autumnal color scheme employed by Mrs. Hill with quantities of dahlias, asters and other fall blooms.

The tea menu as well, with its orange ice cream, orange ice and angelfood cake, bonbons in dainty orange cups and other pretty appointments, carried out the same color harmony.

Miss Kimball and her fiancé, Harold Meldrum, have not yet announced the date of their wedding other than to admit that it will be early autumn event.

At yesterday's pre-nuptial affair, invited guests included Mrs. Wilford Davidson, Mrs. Walter Hammond, Mrs. Ed. Ballou, Mrs. Tommy Stotts, (Miss Edna Juden) of Los Angeles, Mrs. Everett Ballard, Mrs. Mary Jo Huff, Mrs. Forest Bain, Mrs. Edith Nichols, Mrs. Charles Nusbaum, Miss Elsie Tudor, Miss Ida Meldrum, Mrs. Frank McCain, Mrs. Neal Bounds, Mrs. Roy Kimball, Mrs. Hobart Capel, Mrs. Norman Walker, Mrs. George Lackaye and the hostess and honor guest, Mrs. Hill and Miss Kimball.

At a meeting last night at Anaheim castle of the recently organized district council of the Knights of Pythias, it was officially decided to hold a free picnic with entertainment and dancing through out the day and evening of Saturday, October 4, under the spreading live oaks of beautiful Orange county park.

The affair will be given under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias lodges embracing Anaheim, Santa Ana, Fullerton, Tustin, Brea, Bellflower and Norwalk, and will be sponsored by the district council of Knights of Pythias. At the next regular meeting of the council, committees on receptions, athletics, music, sports, entertainment, etc., will be appointed.

Led Closs' Aid Plea Frees First
Chinese Vagrant

For the first time in the existence of the Santa Ana police department, according to City Marshal L. C. Rogers, a Chinese was taken into custody for vagrancy. But because of the Oriental's insistent pleas to be permitted to continue to San Diego where he said he was assured employment, the man was placed in the charge of the Salvation Army.

"The Led Closs help me," the arrested man informed the officers. However, the Salvation Army officials took charge of the case and Red Cross aid was not requested. Because of the man's inability to express himself in the English language, little could be learned as to how he became stranded or what kind of work he expected to find in San Diego.

Rum Case Pilot's
Fine Suspended

Mack Smith of Whittier, arrested last Sunday on a charge of driving his automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, when he crashed into another car on the Anaheim road near Seal Beach, causing serious injury to Mrs. Jesus Sanchez of Santa Ana, was ordered to pay a fine of $250 and to serve ninety days in jail, it was disclosed here today.

Judge G. H. Morrison of Seal Beach, who named the penalty, agreed to suspend the jail sentence on condition that Smith is faithful to his promise of good behavior in the future.

Belting Stolen
From S. A. Plant

During the night a thief broke into the "pit shed" of the local fruit packing plant of Guggenheim and company, at Fruit street and the Southern Pacific tracks, and slashed the belting from the pulleys, according to a report at police headquarters today.

Fifteen feet of heavy leather belting six inches wide was stolen. The officers who investigated the robbery found no clues.

Smart Fall Coat
Attracts Attention

Here is one of the smartest of fall coats—for it really is just a coat in spite of the fact that it looks like a dress and coat. What seems to be a dress is a vest in the coat that may be fastened closely about the neck or opened to form revers. The coat is of rough wool material and the lining and vest are of plaid kasha. Hudson seal makes the collar and cuffs.

Dance Studio to Open
First of September

With the coming of September, an interesting dance studio will be re-opened when Beulah Hilton (Mrs. Jules Hilton) will resume her classes in classic dancing.

Mrs. Hilton will open her new studio on the second floor of the Rohrs building and will receive pupils in interpretative, ballet and all forms of classic dancing as well as in ball-room dancing. Her classes last year when she was in the Ramona building, were especially successful and the interest attracted by her recital in the Modern Woodman hall was warm and friendly.

Dramatic art is also included in Mrs. Hilton's curriculum and she will open classes in expression at the same time. The new studio is said to be an especially attractive one which will offer appropriate surroundings and ample space for the classes.

Lays Blame For Crash To Driver
He Didn't Know

ORANGE, Aug. 23.—A. Truogello, a Mexican living at 1034 Cogan street, Santa Ana, was placed under arrest here last night by City Marshal M. E. Jamison and held for investigation after the car in which he was riding crashed into a fence and a gas meter on North Olive street.

Truogello, witnesses stated, fled from the scene of the accident, but was captured after a chase of two blocks. He told the police that he did not know who owned the car. The driver, he said, picked him up and gave him a ride from the El Modena road. En route to Orange, he claimed, the driver gave him a drink of some liquor that destroyed his memory until the car crashed into the fence.

His traveling companion immediately left the car after the accident and ran down the street, and not wishing to be left alone, Truogello followed, he told Marshal Jamison.

M. & M. CLOSING ON LABOR DAY URGED

All places of business in Santa Ana will be closed all day Labor day, which is Monday, September 2, if the recommendations of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association are carried out.

P. S. Lucas, secretary of the association, today notified all members that the board of directors of the "M. & M." recommended the closing of all stores and shops on Labor Day in accordance with the usual custom adopted by the organization.

Notice, specially to members of the Christian church. Dr. Royal J. Dye will deliver a very important address at the Christian church, Sixth and Broadway, Sunday evening at 7:30. Don't miss this great treat.

Innomina Club Has Final Meeting of August Days

Despite the namelessness of their organization, the "Innomina club," the members thereof are delighted with the friendly informality and charm of the semi-monthly gatherings when they chat and sew and enjoy amusing contests such as were offered by yesterday afternoon's hostess, Mrs. W. S. Chandler of 705 South Sycamore street.

Recently organized by a little group of neighbors, the club has been limited in actual membership to an even dozen although each hostess may ask as many guests as she wishes, to share in the afternoon's pleasure. For while there are no officers and no rules, each hostess in turn is club president and vested with absolute power for the session at which she entertains.

Yesterday Mrs. Chandler adorned her pleasant home with quantities of roses, asters and dahlias while the approaching autumn season was suggested by great clusters of golden glow. Following their cordial welcome, the guests busied themselves with needlecraft until Mrs. Chandler introduced an amusing contest, "The Romance of a Shirtwaist," in which Mrs. George Kelevor won honors at guessing the greatest number of the missing words—all parts of a shirtwaist.

An appetizing fruit salad with cheese wafers, angelfood cake and coffee formed the tea menu which was enjoyed ere the afternoon was brought to a close. The club will be entertained at the first September meeting by Mrs. James Clark of 314 East Myrtle street. This will be on the second Friday of the month, according to club meeting dates.

Members enjoying Mrs. Chandler's hospitality were Mesdames James Clark, W. J. Leonard, Harry Riegler, M. C. Williams, George Williams, C. T. Wells, I. D. Annis and Joe Ryan, while guests were Mesdames George Kelevor, James Chandler, A. B. Chandler, Kate Snow, T. N. Edwards of Anaheim, and Charles Walters of Venice.

Hot Weather Menus

Luncheon
Fruit Cup
Molded Cheese Salad
Whole Wheat Bread
Radishes, Olives
Iced Chocolate

Substantial salads are delicious for luncheon, but out of place for dinner. This cheese salad may be out of the ordinary and appeal for that reason as well as one or two others.

Molded Cheese Salad
Three-fourth cup grated cheese, 1 1/2 teaspoon mustard, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 cup whipping cream, 1/2 teaspoon onion juice, 1/2 teaspoon celery pepper, paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, 1 tablespoon minced parsley. Soften gelatin in four tablespoons cold water and melt over boiling water. Whip cream until stiff, fold in cheese, nuts and seasoning and dissolved gelatin. Turn into a mold and put on ice to chill and become firm. Remove from mold and cut in slices. Serve on a bed of lettuce hearts with French dressing made with minced pimientos.

Dinner Menu
Jellied Bouillon Radishes Celery Olives
Broiled Porterhouse Steak
Creamed Potatoes Lima Beans
Cabbage Salad
Watermelon Cones

Many people serve iced tea or coffee with the summer dinner rather than a hot drink.

Watermelon cones make even a rather poor meal into something refreshing and delicious.

Watermelon Cones
Cut the red part of a melon into cone shaped pieces. Dip in hot heavy syrup. The syrup must not boil. Pack cones in the mold of an ice cream freezer and pack in half salt and half ice. Let stand one or two hours, depending on the make of your freezer, and serve three or four cones to each person. Orange juice can be added to the syrup. Boil 1 cup sugar and 1 1/2 cup water five minutes to make the syrup. Remove from the fire, add fruit and let stand until the fruit is saturated with the syrup. If you boil the syrup too long a brittle coating will be formed over the melon.

REPORTS AUTO STOLEN.
R. E. Conch of 121 Pomona avenue today had notified the police of the theft of his touring car which he had parked yesterday afternoon in front of a furniture store at the corner of Fourth and Spurgeon streets. The owner of the car was inside the store when his automobile was taken.

OPENS GARAGE
Matt Snyder for the past two years salesman for Kolberg and Gerken, Jordan dealers here, has opened the Central garage at 429 West Fourth street. General automobile work will be done.

Many hundreds of women spend their lives in driving and steering the car, but in southern and midland England.

Gayeties to Continue
Down at Yacht Club
Into September

As summer wanes at the beach, gayeties seem to wax and glow with even more brilliancy than in the long mid-summer days. For the devoted members of the Newport Beach Yacht club, loth to relinquish their summer gayety, seem determined to crowd every possible happy experience into the few remaining weeks ere they scatter throughout the southland as September schoolbells call their young people to study.

Yesterday's merry bridge and mah jongg luncheon was an example of the light-hearted gayety manifest at the club, and tonight's mid-summer sailor's ball will stand as another. Races scheduled for this afternoon were expected to prove as keenly interesting to the daring and intrepid Rocking Chair Fleet as to the seasoned salts at the tiller.

At yesterday's luncheon when Mrs. William N. Cummings, Mrs. Lillian Baxter and Mrs. C. Paulson Visel were hostesses, the long tables in the nautical dining-room of the club were brilliant with cornflowers and daisies in a blue and gold color scheme. Later the guests adjourned to the breeze-swept verandas where eleven bridge and one mah jongg table awaited eager players.

The club prize of half a dozen Madeira tea-napkins fell to the lot of Mrs. Andrew Wilson while the prize of pretty vanity was awarded Mrs. McKenna. Mrs. Susan Rutherford of the mah jongg players carried off honors and incidentally the prize of a Chinese table mat.

The sailor ball tonight will be a costume affair, and while latitudes is given in the matter of fancy dress, it is anticipated that most of the members and their guests will appear as jolly Jack Tars.

The weekly card luncheons will continue until after Labor day which is ever an unusually gay interval at the clubhouse.

Household Hints

BUY LARGE FISH
Buy a large fish and use the left.

covers rather than a small fish for one meal, because there is less waste in proportion to the amount of meat.

Away from Heat
Keep ammonia in a glass bottle away from the heat.

Small Quantities
Many groceries deteriorate with long storing and prove to be much more expensive in the long run than if you buy in small quantities and keep getting fresh installments.

Prevents Cheese Drying
Butter the edges of cut cheese to keep it from drying. Store it in a cool, dry place of even temperature.

Buying Vegetables
When buying vegetables avoid those of poor quality that are wilted, specked, overripe or green. The waste amounts to much more than the saving in cost.

Selecting Fruit
When selecting fruit buy that which is not bruised, as a break in the skin means quick decay.

Saves Time
If the first course of your dinner is a cold course you can save time by having it on the table when the meal is announced.

Watch Your Drugs
Never keep drugs in your medicine chest for more than a year unless you are sure they are the sort that do not deteriorate.

Wash Dish Towels
Wash your dish towels at least once a day in hot water and soap. Hang out of doors if possible. If not, put in a rack in the air and light. They should be boiled at least once a week.

Butter Spreaders
If you use butter spreaders they should be on the bread and butter plate or beside the spoons.

Keep Cellar Closed
During the hot weather keep the cellar closed by day and air it out at night. It will be drier if the hot air of the day is shut out.

DELHI MAN FINED
S. Saragosa, of Delhi, was today ordered to pay a fine of $250 when he was found guilty by Justice Jack Landell of having liquor in his possession. Lacking funds to pay the fine Saragosa went to jail to serve 200 days. Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Ed McClellan appeared in court as complaining witness.

The Queen of Spain owns a beautiful typewriter of white enamel and gold, with keys of ivory.

WHO WAS FIRST BROADCASTER?

TWO CLAIM PARENTAGE OF SCHEME

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
NEA Service Radio Editor

Two men claim the distinction of being "the father of broadcasting." They are Harold J. Power, head of the American Radio and Research Corporation, of Medford Hills, Mass., and H. P. Davis, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., of East Pittsburgh, Pa.

Thus far this conflict over the origin of broadcasting has remained practically unnoticed. Yet it is one of the important questions in the history of radio which will be left for the future to decide.

Despite the wrangle over the parental rights to this radio child, facts produced by the claimants point to a difference of nearly three years between their dates of broadcasting's birth.

What Was Started?
According to Power, broadcasting started in December, 1916, under his direction, at Medford Hills.

According to Davis, broadcasting began on Oct. 17, 1919, at the home of Frank Conrad in Wilkesburg, Pa.

That this three-year disparity does not settle the question is due to the fact that details connected with each of these events seem to clash.

According to Power, actual broadcasting started in December, 1916, from station IXE, call letters for his station before the government issued the broadcasting licenses now in vogue. Concerts were sent out two and three times a week, and during some weeks the station was on the air every night except Sunday.

But it was not until May 20, 1921, that Power began a regular daily broadcast program under the call letters WGI.

Station KDKA, at East Pittsburgh, however, began official broadcasting with election night of Nov. 2, 1920, nearly six months earlier.

Year's Testing
More than a year previous to this date, Frank Conrad, Westinghouse engineer, had begun experimenting with radio transmission from the garage of his home at Wilkesburg, Pa. He broadcast concerts every Saturday night.

But it was not until October of 1920 that H. P. Davis, vice president of the Westinghouse company, conceived the idea of broadcasting from his plant for the benefit of all those who owned radio receiving sets. He moved Conrad's idea to East Pittsburgh, enlarged the plant and started regular broadcasting with election returns on Nov. 2, 1920.

According to Power, Station IXE had been doing this for almost four years, although official recognition of this station as a broadcaster did not come until May 20, 1921, while KDKA got official sanction to broadcast on Oct. 18, 1920.

Officially, therefore, KDKA is the first broadcasting station. In point of fact, Station WGI is the first.

RULES FOR SAFE AERIAL ERECTION

By NEA Service

CHICAGO, Aug. 23—Continued tragedies to radio fans who have tried to erect aerials near high-powered electric lines have caused one of the largest electric light and power companies to distribute a set of safety rules for the prevention of such accidents.

E. S. Hight, engineer in charge of operations of the Illinois Power & Light Corporation, specifies them as follows:

"Antennae or any part of same must not be attached to arc light poles, or any poles carrying wires at a greater potential than 220 volts.

"These wires must not be installed above or below any electric light or power wires, or nearer than three feet from them.

"When being installed the wires must not be thrown over any wire of any kind, unless it is positively known that this wire does not carry any voltage.

"Transmitting sets must not be connected to secondary lighting or power circuits to which any other customers are connected. A separate transformer must be set up for any such connection to the radio apparatus.

"Any transmitting or receiving set attached to a secondary circuit must be provided with a thorough and adequate ground which is not connected to a gas pipe."

Candidate Is Interviewed

DR. BALL TELLS HOW STATE CHIEF OPENS CONTROVERSY

At this late date in the campaign it hardly seems necessary to interview any more candidates in order to get them fairly before the people of the county.

When this series was started by The Register three weeks ago it was with the intention only of interviewing legislative candidates, and invitations were sent to them to come in and be interviewed if they so desired, on subjects that the candidate thought pertinent to the campaign and upon subjects The Register might consider pertinent.

Some other candidates have come in and have asked to be interviewed, and all of them have been given the opportunity. If there are others who desire the same opportunity they may have it early Monday morning.

DR. C. D. BALL'S CAMPAIGN

FEATURED BY CONTROVERSY

"Who started this passage of words between you and the governor?"

This question might do as well as any other for opening up an interview with Dr. C. D. Ball, candidate for re-election as assemblyman.

"Who started it?" repeated Dr. Ball. I didn't. I was travelling along peacefully when out of a clear sky the governor swooped down upon me and accused me of belonging to a spendthrift gang and of training with the wet politicians from San Francisco.

"I didn't propose then and do not propose now to stand awed and meek just because Friend Richardson happens to be governor. A governor has no more right to make mis-statements than has a constable. Richardson seems to think that a word from him will strike a man dead. I declined to turn over and die, and that is why the controversy opened up."

"What has been the general effect of the governor's interference?"

"The people of Orange county, I find, are quite capable of attending to their own politics without any advice from Sacramento," replied the assemblyman. "What has been the general effect? I'll let the voters answer the question Tuesday."

This controversy with the governor, continued Dr. Ball, "has brought out the main issue in the campaign. Shall the governor's program of economy go to extreme lengths in order that he may make a showing before the people of having saved great sums of money? Shall the legislature take his dictation and let him shove a lot of state expenses off on to the counties and cities? I am perfectly willing and will help Governor Richardson save every dollar possible. I'll help him get rid of reckless expenditures, but I won't sit by and fail to do my best to prevent him from saving state taxes for the corporations by increasing taxes in Orange county, Anaheim, Orange, Fullerton and other counties and cities."

Dr. Ball declared himself to be deeply interested in water conservation, "in securing proper apportionment for Orange county, in irrigation, in humanitarian measures, in fair treatment of the insane, blind and other unfortunate of the state."

ORANGE COUNTY SEEN STRONG FOR SWING

In an address at the "Make It Unanimous" Swing meeting at San Bernardino last night, L. A. West, president of the Orange County Swing-For-Congress club, drew enthusiastic applause when he predicted that Orange county would give Swing a majority of 7,000.

West was one of several speakers who preceded Phil D. Swing, candidate for re-election, at what was declared to have been the biggest political gathering in the history of San Bernardino county.

Swing supporters had heralded the meeting as a meeting to make San Bernardino county unanimous for Swing.

Following the meeting, five Santa Anas, who attended the meeting, were in the office of the San Bernardino Sun when good naturedly West declared that Orange county would give Swing a bigger majority than San Bernardino county.

James Guthrie, managing editor of the Sun, came back with this declaration:

"You can't do it. This is Phil's home town. He was born and brought up here. We are going to make it unanimous. Even though you have the advantage in registration, we'll beat you."

But West's challenge stands, and returns will be watched with interest by those who overheard the conversation.

The Republican registration of Orange county is 24,000 and that of San Bernardino 22,000.

Santa Anas present were L. A. West, J. C. Wallace, secretary of the Swing-For-Congress club, W. B. Williams, Frank J. Was and T. E. Stephenson.

ter to the central committee and others sent long enough ago to have enabled you to compile or have compiled some information asked therein. WHY in your Register interview did you not tell about that 11th hour nomination? WHO composed the "group" who believed that the old agreement should be broken?

WHO were present at the now famous conference? We know that some of the supervisors were, but who else? Why the secrecy about the identity of those whom you say have done such a perfectly proper thing in breaking a 28-year agreement?

"Anyone who knows Tom Talbert knows that he talks straight out" is the high praise opening your interview. I would like some of this "straight out" talk even at the end of an eleventh hour interview. Now then, "Straight out" who were the "some Riverside men who wanted you to run?"

"Straight out" WHO called the conference—and why—and when?

"Straight out" WHO were the "well known Riverside men" who sent you messages urging you to run—and who brought the messages?

"Straight out" WHY such profound secrecy about the conference with Evans and 'others'? If you knew WHO were there and WHY the conference was held it might be illuminating on why Orange has been asked to break faith by nominating you.

"Straight out"—and hottest of all off the bat—"is it not true that it was a little group of state makers who were hammering Evans out of the race and that ALL the Riverside men were here for was to protest your candidacy but that you and your little group of friends insisted on your running?" "Straight out" once more in your interview, you tell for the first time that you had two or three interviews with Evans and he finally decided not to run.

"Straight out"—now on your solicitude for poor Imperial county having no representation at all. Is it your pity for Imperial not being included in the agreement you so frankly admit existed that induced you to break the agreement and instead of championing the cause of Imperial and insisting that she have her so long delayed rights of representation, you took it yourself!

"Straight out" when do you intend that Imperial shall have her inning? I have a plan; do you? or do you intend that Orange shall monopolize it all now that she has the votes to do it?

"Straight out" and as the last one "hot off the bat" does not your action—permitted as you say under the law—but wholly indefensible I say under a code of political honor, is not your action simply that of the old barons of old who with their superior force (in this case the larger vote of Orange county, if you can control them) went forth with spear and bludgeon, and what they had was determined by.

"Let him take who hath the POWER"

"And let him keep—who can!"

Speaking "Straight out" for my self and representing a score of Kline clubs we believe that political honor is more than a petty office; that it WAS a compact and no compact can be broken with honor; that if it were to be abrogated that the ONLY Court in which it could be done is the party organization of the Republican Central committees of the THREE counties that any other 'strong arm' methods are as indefensible in politics as in personal relations.

Cordially yours,

GEO. VARNUM, Anaheim, President Kline Clubs of Orange County.

CENTRAL COMMITTEEMAN

REPLIES TO RYMER-VARNUM

Editor Register: The following letter was my reply to a letter sent out by George Varnum, W. P. Webb Jr., and others to members of the Republican County Central committee.

L. W. BLODGET, August 20, 1924.

Mr. William P. Webb Jr., Attorney at Law, Anaheim, California.

My Dear Webb: The circular letter bearing your type-written name at the bottom addressed to the Republican Central Committee of Orange county, relative to candidacy of Tom Talbert for State Senator, has been received by me.

I cannot understand how the Republican Central Committee of Orange county should have the power to nominate the Republican candidate for this office. The primary election which we now have in California is for the purpose of nominating a candidate and the Central committee is organized for the purpose of electing the Republican candidate after he is nominated by the Republican voters in the district. Any man with the nomination and the Republican Central committee is pledged to support the man who is selected at the primary. I for one believe that Tom Talbert is the best man for the position. I will back him to my utmost ability at the primary and if he receives the nomination I will back him at the November election. If he is not successful, I will throw my weight just as strongly behind the other man who is selected to represent the Republican party.

It would seem to me that this letter sent to the Republican Central Committee is based upon the wrong assumption of the duties of the Republican Central committee. Their duties commence after the primary and not before.

As to breaking faith with Riverside county, I wish to call your particular attention to the fact that the agreement claimed in your letter to have been made twenty-eight years ago was long prior to the existence of Imperial county. What has Imperial county to do under the agreement you claim to be still in existence if the Senator is to be nominated after Riverside from Riverside and then from Orange county? There may have been some understanding or courtesy existing between the leaders of the old time Southern Pacific machine to do as you say under the old caucus system but that system is no longer in effect and neither is the Southern Pacific machine, consequently that agreement has also died with the causes which created it.

Now to get down to the situation which actually exists. I find that Tom Talbert was not urged to run solely by representatives of Orange county but that he was urged to go into the race by men from Riverside and Imperial county as well. Who those men are makes no difference to me. Mr. Talbert is in my estimation the best material in the race. I happen to know that many of the leading men of Riverside county are favoring Mr. Talbert's race for the nomination and I also know that they are favoring Mr. Talbert, not only because of his qualifications, but because of political differences arising in Riverside county where this controversy originally arose. Mayor S. C. Evans of Riverside, who intended to run, came to Mr. Talbert when he found that Kline insisted on running, and after a conference here at Huntington Beach with Mr. Talbert, S. C. Evans withdrew from the race.

Orange county and Mr. Talbert are keeping faith with Riverside county and also keeping faith with themselves and Imperial county. Tom Talbert will and should receive the unanimous endorsement of Orange county Republicans and will receive a majority of the voters in Riverside and Imperial counties. I hope that I will be able to support Mr. Talbert as the Republican candidate for state senate, after the primary.

Yours for political equality as given us under the present primary laws of California.

L. W. BLODGET, Member Republican County Central Committee.

ANAHEIM MAN OUT FOR TALBERT AND HARTRANFT

Editor Register:—Let us eliminate the argument that the voters of Orange county are under a moral obligation, or any other kind of an obligation, to vote for Chester Kline for senator. It is true that some twenty-eight years ago, under the old convention system, the politicians of that day made an agreement whereby the office of state senator should be held alternately by the two counties of Orange and Riverside, which then composed this senatorial district. Since then Imperial county has been added to this senatorial district, and no amendment has been made to the so-called "gentlemen's agreement" providing that Imperial county may share in the rotation of the office of senator.

Since then, also, we have adopted the primary election system, which wiped out completely and for all time the old convention system. Let us throw aside all the campaign "bunk" and concentrate our attention on an issue which is vitally important to every resident of Orange county, to our children and our children's children.

I refer to the permanent location of the Southern Branch of the state university. We all know that the present location of the Southern Branch in the city of Los Angeles is temporary, and not at all likely to be made permanent, because of the utter impossibility of acquiring a site sufficiently extensive at a price possible to be paid. Three other locations are under consideration by those who have given careful study to this problem. First, the San Fernando valley; second, the Pomona-Ontario district; third, Orange county.

For geographical reasons alone, Orange county stands the best chance of securing the Southern Branch. It is within easiest reach of the centers of population of Southern California. Orange county is more desirable because of climatic conditions. For other reasons the selection of this location for the Southern Branch of the State University could well be urged.

To secure the permanent location of the Southern Branch in Orange county we must send to the state legislature the men best fitted by education, training and experience.

Tom Talbert, a candidate for state senator, has been a member of the board of supervisors of this county for the past fifteen years, and for the last twelve years has been chairman of that body. During all that time he has come in close contact with the men who have taken leading parts in the public life of the several counties of this state. He has been president of the Supervisors State Association and is at this time vice president of the Southern California Supervisors Association.

While engaged in solving with other public men of the state such problems as reforestation, flood control and water conservation, he has become known throughout the state and especially in the southern part of it as a man of ability, broad vision, integrity and endowed with the spirit of fairness. As a member of the state senate he would have a very great influence with the members of that body. The record of Tom Talbert as a public official is without blemish.

Associated with him in the legislature we should have a member of the state assembly capable of accomplishing the result desired—a man of strong character, like Mr. Talbert, capable of bringing to his help his associates in the assembly. A genial man, a likeable man, a man with the ability to compel the attention of any group with which he mixes. Such a man is S. C. Hartranft of Fullerton, who is recognized as one of the leaders in educational work. The teachers of Orange county know him, the good citizens who attend meetings of the Parent-Teachers' associations know him, the parents of the Boy Scouts know him, those who have assisted in the work of the Y. M. C. A. know him—and they all know him as one who commands their attention and respect. So would it be if he is elected a member of the state assembly. Without a doubt he would be a member of the committee on education of the assembly and very likely would be chairman of that committee.

These two men, working loyally for the very greatest interest of Orange county, and for the benefit of the state of California as well, would be able to exert a tremendous influence in securing for Orange county the permanent location of the Southern Branch of the University of California. No other men who are at this time candidates for either senate or assembly would be able to accomplish what could be done by the efforts of Talbert and Hartranft.

COUNTY'S AUTO SALES SLUMP; FINISH 11TH FOR MONTH

Motor Business Decreases 46 Per Cent According to Official Survey

ALL CALIFORNIA LOSES

State's Decline Declared Only Temporary; Claim 'Come Back' Certain

According to figures compiled by the Motor Registration News, published at Oakland, automobile and truck sales in California last month suffered a slump of 26 per cent, as compared with July, 1923.

At the same time the publication in its August issue discloses that sales in Orange county last month were 46 per cent less than for the same month last year. By the record the county dropped from sixth place in 1923 to eleventh place in 1924 in the list of counties showing the highest sales records.

Los Angeles county leads the state in the number of new car registrations. Sacramento, however, was the only county in the state showing a gain over July, 1923.

Gives State Records

Giving the new car and truck sales for the state for July at 16,029, as compared with 21,731 for the same month a year ago, the News presents the following recapitulation of motor sales in the state:

"While Northern California has a loss, it is much less from the percentage standpoint than has been the northern decrease in the last few months. The decline in the north amounted to 11 per cent; the registration comparisons were 7,560 cars and trucks last month, against 8,569 in the same period twelve months ago.

"Southern California, however, dropped 35 per cent, 2 per cent higher than the Southern California decrease during June. In the case of the south registrations aggregated 8,469, compared to 13,162.

"Passenger car business in California fell off 25 per cent. Passenger car sales attained a volume of 14,633, compared to 19,549.

"There was a 10 per cent passenger car sale loss in Northern California and a 34 per cent passenger car sales loss in the south. Northern sales aggregated 6,864, while the south disposed of 7,769.

Family Contest Winner to Get Star Car

According to announcement made today by E. E. Northland, manager for the Appleby Motor company, distributor here of Durant and Star automobiles, a Star car is to be the prize given by the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce to the largest family attending the state fair there August 30 to September 7.

"Officials of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce know that the Star is capable of providing the best transportation for even the largest family in the state," Northland said. "Their choice was made after a careful consideration of the appointments and features of automobiles in the low-priced field."

So far as is known here no Orange county family has signified intention of participating in the big-family contest.

Woman's Married Life Filled With Abuse, Her Claim

Declaring that her married life was a succession of verbal and physical abuse, nagging, fault finding and actual blows from her husband, Mrs. Eva Stone, of Fullerton, was plaintiff in a divorce action which she had on file in superior court here today, against Julius Stone.

"The Stones were married six years ago in Saskatchewan, Canada. They lived for a time in Riberton, Canada, and came to Fullerton in March, this year. The separation following a series of alleged quarrels, including a dispute over custody of their two children, came on April 20.

Stone took the children from his wife by force of threats against her, she alleged. In her divorce petition Mrs. Stone asks custody of the children and seeks to be awarded the Stone property, a house and lot at La Serina, California.

Attorneys Ames and McFadden, of Anaheim, represent her in the action.

FUEL COST CUT TO BE SOUGHT BY GOV'T.

Federal Authorities Hold Gas Production Is Higher Than Companies Admit

According to reports from Washington, D. C., three government agencies soon will inaugurate a battle against oil producing companies with a view to decreasing motor fuel costs.

The agencies involved are the United States department of justice, the Federal Trade commission, and the National Association of States Attorneys General.

The campaign as prepared, according to dispatches, will be conducted along the three following lines:

1. Publication of information collected by the department of justice, showing that gasoline production in the United States is much higher than consumers are led to believe.
 2. Efforts to make available a great volume of the national production of gasoline, resulting in lower prices, besides attacking price fixing tendencies.
 3. Court action by state and federal authorities, seeking to break up efforts at standard price fixing.
- The various states, it has been agreed after a conference here, will begin the battle by starting court action to lower fuel prices. All information gathered by the federal department of justice will be made available to the state authorities for the purpose.

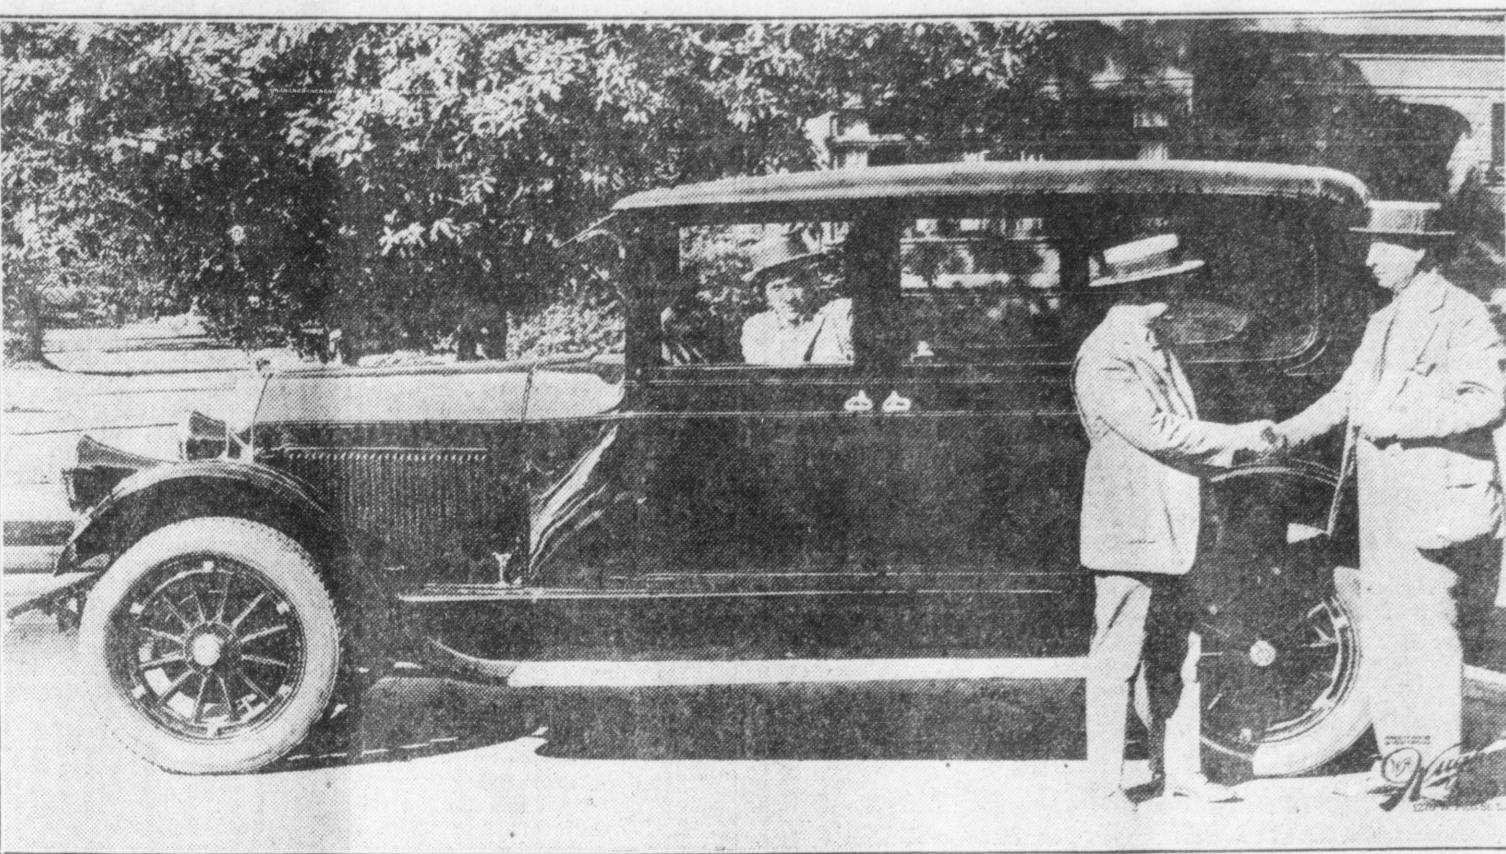

AUTO REPAIR FIRM IS PURCHASED HERE

J. B. Jolly, former owner of the Hudson Service company at 305 West Fifth street, today announced that he had purchased from Charles Bevis the garage and accessories business of the central garage, 102 North Sycamore street, and hereafter would operate there under the name of the Grand Central garage.

At the same time V. A. Barrow, owner of the Santa Ana Ignition works, announced that he had transferred his business from the West Fifth street location to the Grand Central garage, where, he said, he is better equipped for giving service to patrons.

Superintendent of Hudson and Essex service here for many months past, and a former employee of the Hudson factory, Jolly said that in his new location he will continue to specialize in repair work on Hudson, Essex and Marmon cars.

MODERATE PRICED PIERCE-ARROW DUE HERE WEDNESDAY

Here is the five-passenger sedan of the new Series 80, just announced by the Pierce-Arrow Motor company. The sedan will be on exhibition here Wednesday at the garage of the Orange County Motors company, First and Main streets. X. V. Ayers and Roy Wilson head the company and they recently took the franchise here for the Pierce-Arrow line. Wilson is seated at the wheel of the car. Ayers (left) is being congratulated by L. R. Wadsworth, vice-president and general manager of the William E. Bush company, Los Angeles, Pierce-Arrow distributor for Southern California, on the local company's success in obtaining the franchise for Orange county.

BUICK TOURIST TRIO RETURNS FROM UTAH

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Seaver and daughter, Claudine, of Harperville, have returned from a three month tour of the East which took them on an interesting motor trip across Nevada, a part of Arizona and through Utah to Salt Lake City. They made the tour in their Buick six sedan.

In Colorado they especially enjoyed Denver, where several days were spent. Traveling by way of Kansas City and St. Louis, they reached Southern Illinois, where they were guests of relatives of Mrs. Seaver. Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland were all visited, with Washington and historic Mt. Vernon as objective points.

Following a stay in the national capitol the battlefield of Gettysburg was visited and Niagara Falls soon followed as an object of interest. A visit in Hamilton, Canada, was followed by a return westward by way of Northern Ohio and Chicago, the travelers stopping in Clinton, Wis., to visit Mr. Seaver's relatives and again with his brother in Iowa.

The Black Hills of South Dakota were passed through en route to Portland and down the coast to Harperville. Twenty-one states were visited and 10,300 miles were checked off by the speedometer of the Buick. Seaver declared the trip was enjoyed without engine trouble, and that the car proved to be a wonderful mountain climber.

JORDAN'S NEW MODELS HERE NEXT WEEK

Models of the new eight-in-line Jordan will be on exhibition early next week at the garage of the Orange County Automobile company, Otto Kolberg, a member of the company, announced today.

This will be the first showing of models of the new line.

Asserting his conviction that the new car justifies the faith and confidence placed by Edward Jordan, in the Jordan engineering policies, the local dealer said the eight had been developed to keep pace with the physical needs and the social progress of owners and potential owners of Jordan cars.

"The refinements installed throughout the chassis, the new power plant and the body appointments must be seen to be fully appreciated," Kolberg said. "Like the six, there are five styles, the touring, the playboy, the Victoria, the brougham, and the sedan, each in a choice of color finishes. The chassis is 125 1/2 inch wheel base. Spring suspension is on leaves all of chrome vanadium steel. The power plant is a straight line of eight cylinders with a new firing order that applies the push of the explosions or power strokes on the turbine principal. The bore of the cylinders is three inches and the stroke four and three-quarters.

"The rated speed of the car is up to seventy-two miles per hour with a minimum of one to two miles an hour on high. It develops an actual brake horsepower of 74 at 3000 R. P. M."

A sedan model of the new and moderately priced car put out by the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company, will be on exhibition Wednesday at First and Main streets, headquarters of the Orange County Motors company, X. V. Ayers and Roy S. Wilson, who compose the company and who have announced their appointment as Pierce-Arrow representatives here, said today.

The new model closely resembles the Pierce-Arrow's famous car, including fender headlights, that for years have made the car distinctive.

"The new product fulfills the promise that the Pierce-Arrow company would produce an automobile comparable in design, materials and workmanship with the larger dual-valve car, but more modest in size and consequently more moderate in price," Ayers said.

"The new car will be known as Pierce-Arrow Series 80, the larger dual-valve car retaining its designation, Series 33.

"The new series features the latest Pierce-Arrow development in six cylinder engines—a principal that Pierce-Arrow engineers have specialized in since the early days of the automobile. It is said to be the most flexible and most efficient engine yet designed. The bore is 3 1/2 inches and the stroke 5. Although the formula rating for an engine of these dimensions is 29.4 horsepower, the Series 80 power plant actually generates more than 70 horsepower.

"Balloon tires have been engineered into the design, as well as regular Pierce-Arrow four-wheel brakes."

According to Ayers, the new product is offered in a complete line of seven body types—the four and seven passenger touring, the runabout, the five and seven passenger sedan, the four passenger coupe, and the enclosed limousine for seven passengers. Color options also are offered.

S.A. TOURISTS IN EAST LAUD NASH POWER

Mr. and Mrs. J. Krock, who left their home here in June for a tour of the east in their Nash automobile, have covered 7703 miles and driven through fourteen states, according to a letter from Mr. Krock to the May Motor company here. The letter was written at Philadelphia under date of August 12. The Santa Anas were guests at Philadelphia of Mrs. Krock's brother, a teacher in a parochial school there for the past thirty years.

Declaring that "we will be glad to reach good old California again," Krock says that when he leaves Philadelphia, he will go to Washington, D. C., thence to Florida and then home through Texas and other intervening states.

He adds that "everyone has admired our Nash car and marveled at its performance."

"On our way here we stopped at Yellowstone park and were caught in a rain shower, the first on our trip," writes Krock. "It began to snow just as we arrived and the next morning our little Nash car was covered with icicles, some of them eight inches long.

"Returning from the park, we ran into a real rain storm that made traveling a little difficult—but the Nash made good and carried us through. We saw many desolate farms on our route through Idaho and Montana. In North and South Dakota the crops were looking good."

While at Youngstown, Ohio, they visited with Mrs. Emma Smith, formerly Miss Emma Hoyer, who is well known in Santa Ana. At Springfield they also visited their son, Carl, who is attending the university there.

2 CONVICTED AS RAILROAD THIEVES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Archie L. Hadsell and Clinton C. Coghlin, both of Oakland, said to be the leaders of a gang of railroad thieves whose loot totaled more than $200,000, were convicted by a jury in Federal Judge Kerrigan's court. Although the trial lasted for more than a week, the jury did its work quickly, being out but ten minutes.

Judge Kerrigan ordered Coghlin's bail increased from $5000 to $7500 and that of Hadsell raised from $3500 also to $7500.

ORANGE COUNTY REGISTRATION OF VEHICLES NOW SIXTH IN STATE

Division Figures Disclose 29,416 Automobiles Are Owned By Folks Here

CAL. TOTAL 1,234,579

Trucks, Motorcycles and Trailers Bring Local Mark to 34,103

Registering 29,416 automobiles from February to August 1, Orange county is sixth county in the state in the number of such vehicles, according to figures released here today by Will H. Marsh, chief of the state motor vehicle division. At the same time Marsh issued a statement showing a gain over 1923 of 113,794 in the total of automobile, truck, motorcycle and trailer registrations in the state for the same period.

According to the compilation of registration figures by the division, Orange county has registered a total of 24,103 automobiles, trucks, motorcycles and trailers. The number is divided as follows: Automobiles, 29,416; solid tire trucks, 607; pneumatic tire trucks, 3061; motorcycles, 304; trailers, 725.

Total registrations for the state, inclusive of trailers, was 1,234,579, distributed as follows: Automobiles, 1,036,713; solid tire trucks, 39,358; pneumatic tire trucks, 133,011; motorcycles 10,975; trailers, 14,522.

Virtually all counties in the state made gains in registrations, according to Marsh. Los Angeles was first with a total of 493,281; San Francisco was second, with 33,882; and Alameda was third, with 33,481.

It will be noted by the figures that Los Angeles county registered nearly 400,000 more vehicles than did San Francisco. Registrations in other counties up to tenth place follow in numerical order, Fresno, 47,194; San Diego, 41,047; Orange, 34,103; Sacramento, 30,723; San Bernardino, 27,028; San Joaquin, 26,273.

TRACK TO BE FAST FOR SEPT. 1 RACES

Asserting that speed trials by fast racing cars already indicated that the race course here will be one of the fastest dirt tracks in the state, Frank Stansfield, president and manager of the Orange County Racing association, said today that a number of entries had been received for the races to be given by the association on the afternoon of Monday, September 1.

"The little red-wheeled car entered by George Martin turned the five-eighth mile track in forty-five seconds in a recent trial," Stansfield said. "The afternoon practices by drivers who have entered cars in the races are witnessed daily by large crowds."

Auto Gland Sales Office Here, Plan

H. E. Switzer today announced completion of plans for the opening here Monday of offices for the sale and distribution of Auto Gland. According to Switzer, Auto Gland is a preparation for brightening automobiles.

"It is put on with a cheesecloth and makes a car look like new," Switzer said. "It sets in five days and dries in forty minutes—in other words, in one hour after application it makes an old car look like new. It is not paint, polish or varnish and will not blister, peel or crack."

IOWA AT ANN ARBOR

Iowa football eleven will make its first appearance at Ann Arbor since Yost came to Michigan when the Hawkeyes and Wolverines clashed on Ferry Field in November. It will be the second meeting between the two schools since 1902, relations having been resumed last fall at Iowa City. Iowa, incidentally, hasn't whipped a Michigan team since 1900 when it accomplished the trick.

COUNTY'S AUTO SALES SLUMP FOR MONTH

The lessened truck sales amounted to 36 per cent over the contrasting July era. Northern California, with 696 truck sales, dropped 21 per cent, and Southern California, with 700 registrations, fell 45 per cent behind.

"One of the summaries we gain from a survey of the above comparisons is that Northern California 'has come back' from various trade difficulties in the spring much more rapidly than has the south.

"There is no reason in the mind of the publisher of Motor Registration News for changing the statement in the July issue to the effect that 'A gradual improvement in car and truck sales can be looked for each remaining month in 1924, with a bright chance, of course, in December, when we may expect to see business as good as it was twelve months ago.'

"Crop conditions are tither good or fair in nearly every section of the state. Where one district has suffered in some particular agricultural commodity it is more than making up through a healthy revenue return on some other soil product."

LENIENCE WON BY MAN HELD IN OLD CASE

The law, which closed down its grip upon Robert Bleakmore, after five years of patient waiting to punish a crime committed in 1919, had today released him on probation.

Bleakmore, who admitted that he stole an $800 diamond ring from his sister-in-law at Los Alamitos four years ago, was placed on probation for a six-year period when he appeared late yesterday before Judge Z. B. West in department 1 of the superior court.

The stole the ring and pawned it in Los Angeles for $200 to obtain funds for returning to his home in Oklahoma, Bleakmore told Judge West. When he had been in Oklahoma about a year he wrote a letter to his sister-in-law, telling her of the theft, and directing her to the pawn shop where the ring had been pawned. But the pawn shop had been moved, she stated, and no record of the sale of the ring could be found by the police.

"I had to get it off my mind," Bleakmore explained in telling why he wrote the letter.

After five years in the East, Bleakmore returned to California and was promptly arrested on a grand larceny charge. His sister-in-law was in court yesterday and, in a statement to the court, contradicted portions of Bleakmore's description of the theft.

The sister-in-law declared her ring had been worth $800 and Bleak promised the court he would pay her for it, if granted probation.

WHITTIER COMPANY IN GAS SALE FIELD

That the E. J. Doughty Oil company of Whittier, has entered the field of Orange county to compete with other companies in supplying motorists with gasoline and lubricants, was disclosed here today by announcement of L. A. Schlesinger, former Santa Ana theater owner, that he had become the county representative of the concern.

At the same time Schlesinger announced that the company had obtained from the syndicate of Santa Ana men owning the old Arcade rooming house property on East Fourth street, a lease on vacant property at the rear of the rooming house and would establish its distributing station at that point.

Stating that the company distributes White Rose gasoline, the local representative said that he already had procured in the county a number of good accounts."

NOTED SOLDIER TO GIVE TALK AT BALBOA

BALBOA, Aug. 23.—Colonel Dan Morgan Smith, who commanded the "Battalion of Death" the World War, First Battalion, 358th Infantry, Ninetieth Division, A. E. F., former assistant corporation counsel of Chicago, under J. Ham Lewis, Chautauqua speaker and author, will address a community meeting at the M. E. Chapel, Balboa, Friday, Aug. 29 at 8 p. m., presenting his new lecture, "The Spirit of America," which abounds in inspirational appeal for improved conditions, patriotic, religious, industrial and law abiding.

Colonel Smith's natural oratorical and wonderful descriptive ability, home spun common sense, intelligence, wit, magnetism, marvelous dramatic building of thrills and power of convincing argument forming the basis of "The Spirit of America" is no less apparent than the message presented in his lecture, "The World's War and the Fields of France," which has so delighted his thousands of admirers throughout the entire United States.

The Miami Florida Metropolis said of his appearance in Miami, "Introduced by William Jennings Bryan, Col. Dan Morgan Smith, leader of the 'Battalion of Death,' spoke to an immense audience yesterday."

PAIGE BUILT SIX

"ONE BILLION MILES BEYOND EXPERIMENT"

Announcing the Jewett with New Colors and Balloon Tire Comfort

THE JEWETT you buy has proved its soundness of design, its sturdiness, ability, in over a billion miles of service! It's far beyond experiment.

Jewett's big motor is 50 h. p., Paige-built. You want its power to climb hills in high, to pull slowly in high through hard going.

Many cars get their "power" by speeding up small motors. But such strained-for power is short-lived! Jewett's big motor gives its power without speeding up. So it's never strained—never overtaxed. Its life is long!

And Jewett is husky throughout, to match its big power!

Now—the sturdy, proved Jewett offers balloon tires for greater comfort. And smart new colors for appearance. The Jewett De Luxe Touring comes in the new Lotus Blue—striped in crimson.

Come in today and see this smart, new beauty.

GERMANY SURE TO RATIFY NEW PACT

Confident Two-Thirds Majority Necessary Will Be Obtained In House

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Government circles are confident today of obtaining the necessary two-thirds majority for ratification of the pact of London.

The government confidence grows out of the trying trials of the Nationalist forces. Should the Nationalists adopt an over-mild attitude towards the Dawes-Young plan they will lose many adherents and should they be over-antagonistic they are certain of numerous defeats in the general elections.

Today various political parties are meeting to decide what attitude to assume at the Friday meeting. The committee on foreign affairs is studying over the report of the German conference.

The reichstag must decide swiftly whether there is a two-thirds majority available for the Dawes plan as London agreement must be signed by August 30.

Consequently Germany is expecting the Reich decision early next week.

A meeting of the premiers of the German states Tuesday is considered indicative of the country's feelings towards the London conference. The premiers decided that the pact of London did not fully meet all expectations that it was the best solution so far offered on the reparations question.

Government officials trust that the Reichstag will adopt a similar attitude towards the report.

French evacuation of Offenbourg and Appenweier Monday was the cause of much favorable comment from the press. Citizens of both towns refrained from demonstrations but they are most pleased. Government spokesmen throughout the sessions Tuesday and Wednesday were confident that evacuation of the Ruhr would be completed before expiration of the year's time—this of course depending upon success of the London agreement in the Reichstag and the French Chamber and Senate.

BACK S. A. MAN FOR REALTOR BODY HEAD

That Santa Ana realtors are going to the state convention of the California Real Estate association to be held at Pasadena October 8-11, with a view to electing Everett A. White president of the state organization, was revealed here today by W. B. Martin, secretary, following a meeting of the board held yesterday at Kerner's cafe.

Announcement by P. C. Pope that White would be advanced for the position was greeted enthusiastically by members present at the meeting, Martin said.

White is now a vice president of the organization. According to Pope, he was one of the most active of the group of vice-presidents.

"We are going to the convention with the intention of bringing to Santa Ana the honor of being the home city of the head of one of the best and one of the most active organizations in the state," Pope said, in announcing the plans of local brokers.

More than sixteen members of the board, it was stated, would go to Pasadena to remain there throughout the period of the convention. Wives of the brokers will accompany them.

T. B. Talbert, who is a realtor, was a guest of the meeting. Following a brief address made by him on his candidacy for election as state senator, members present promised him 100 per cent support. Sentiment was favorable to the passage of a resolution of endorsement, but established policies of the board prevented this.

The board adopted a resolution endorsing the movement to extend Bristol street to the north to a connection with the state highway near the county hospital. The resolution

Escaped Convict Will Be Returned

'BADGE' BANDIT CALLS POLICE DUMBBELLS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—Harry J. Dunlap, the "badge bandit," will be questioned Monday concerning his testimony yesterday afternoon when he took the witness stand in his own defense.

For several hours Dunlap told his story, in one breath denying that he had ever committed a crime and in the next saying that he had passed scores of bad checks. It is his story of his past life as he unfolded it on the witness stand that the state will attack in cross-examination.

Throughout his story, Dunlap sneered at the local police and district attorney's office, and spent many minutes casting vituperative remarks at his wife, who aided authorities in the nation-wide search for him.

The police department, the "badge bandit" said, is composed of a "big bunch of dumbbells." Judge Cral called him to order several times in his story, administering a severe reprimand.

lution also endorsed any movement in the nature of a street opening that would offer to this city an additional highway entrance to Santa Ana from the north.

It was announced that Glenn Willaman, secretary of the state organization, would be present at the meeting of the board on Friday of next week.

WESTERN OILS CALLED EQUAL OF EASTERN

It is reasonably safe to state that the majority of people are still not aware of the fact that the best lubricating oil does not necessarily come from Pennsylvania.

"Little thought has been given as to whether Pennsylvania oils are manufactured in that state or from crude produced in that state, but the word 'Pennsylvania' seems to have exercised some power over the inadequately informed purchaser, that in some manner, has inspired a feeling of confidence that oils from that state must necessarily be of the highest possible character," the representative said.

"Incidentally, if all the so-called Pennsylvania motor oils were produced from Pennsylvania crude, then that state probably would have a crude oil production in excess of that of the state of California instead of the reverse being the case.

"However, the oil-consuming public should not be unduly criticized for this frame of mind, for western oils are comparatively new on the market. The public has been so accustomed to hearing of eastern lubricating oils and using them with success that it views with some doubt the advent of a new lubricant of which it has not heard.

"Eastern oils have been known for many years and, consequently, there are even cases when western manufacturers have been placed in the unfortunate position of showing that their products are as good, not better. The public eventually believes what it is told, if it is told often enough and emphatically enough, and it has not yet been adequately informed of the true state of affairs in relation to the controversy of West versus East.

"There are many good lubricating oils manufactured by large refining companies with the proper facilities produce such products. How foolish it would be for a large corporation to place on the market oils that would not give satisfaction. What a poor business policy to attempt to force on the public products that would not work satisfactorily under varied conditions, especially if it were possible to obtain better oils elsewhere.

Distinction is Fine
"The points of distinction between good lubricating oil are fine ones, but when we consider these fine points of distinction, certainly western oils can not be viewed in any light except that of highly superior products. Since the points of distinction are fine ones, it is quite difficult to impress properly an eastern oil enthusiast with the force of the evidence, but an unbiased mind which is open to results obtained by proper scientific experimentation and to the opinion of men the character of whose work can not be properly questioned can not fail to be impressed when the individual merits of the western products are brought to view.

"To the average man, the manufacture of the various commodities from crude oil is a process more or less mysterious and complicated. However, refining processes, though complicated, are exact and the manner in which laboratory tests and chemical research can be correlated to commercial practice allows the assertion to be made, without fear of refutation, that there is practically no lubricating condition that can not be successfully met by a straight western oil. In fact, it is absolutely true that western oils not only function as well as do eastern oils, but in many cases give superior service."

Mexican Facing Murder Charge In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—Request for a first degree murder indictment against Eduardo Lopez, accused slayer of Patrolman Edward Witholt, will be laid before the grand jury Thursday according to announcement from the district attorney's office today.

Lopez, who is alleged to have shot down the patrolman Wednesday when the officer attempted to take a revolver from him, confessed his crime at the inquest yesterday.

"I first intended to turn my gun over to the policeman, then I got nervous and commenced firing," the Mexican said. Three other persons were injured by Lopez in his mad rampage.

Radio Silence Is Requested During Mars' Visit Here

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Application has been made to the commerce department here that radio signals be silenced during the period that Mars is nearest the earth in the hope that some signal from the distant planet might be caught.

The petition was made by Prof. David I. Todd, former head of the astronomy department of Amherst who also asked foreign embassies here to make a similar request of their home governments.

Officials did not indicate whether the request would be complied with but some favored giving the experiment a chance even though the likelihood of success seemed negligible.

POLICE SEARCH FOR SLAYER OF BELL MAN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—With the murderer aided by a two months period from the date of the crime until it was discovered, deputy sheriffs today sought clues to establish the identity of the man who killed Henry Carpenter, grocery store manager at Bell, a suburban town, and hid his decapitated body in a river bed near Whittier.

The crime was unearthed yesterday by two boys playing along the wash. The head was separated from the body and found some distance away. The remains were covered with brush.

Identity was established through letters in Carpenter's pockets, most of which had been turned inside out, with all valuables missing.

Carpenter disappeared from Bell on June 29. He left his store funds at the time.

Investigators are certain that murder and robbery was the motive behind the crime, although they have not been able to determine how Carpenter met his death.

A wife and three children, from whom he was separated, survive. They reside in Healdton, Oklahoma.

MOVIE DEAL IN L. A. CONCERNS S. A. PERSONS

The Standard Film laboratory of Hollywood, in which a large number of Santa Ana and Orange county people are interested financially, has been purchased by the Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., of New York, virtually $1,000,000 changing hands in the transaction, according to Harold Meyer of Santa Ana.

Herbert Yates, managing director of the New York concern, who has been on the West Coast for the past month working on the deal, signed the contracts yesterday, one of the specifications of which will be an immediate expenditure of a quarter of a million dollars on improvements and new equipment.

"The most far reaching effect of our establishing a plant in Hollywood will be a greatly facilitated service on completed prints to exchanges and distribution points west of the Mississippi," Yates declared yesterday.

The Hollywood plant will be in charge of Leonard Abrams. He will be assisted by G. W. Yates, E. G. Patterson and Claude Baldrige. Ludwig G. B. Erb will be director and chief technical adviser of the actual laboratory work of the local plant.

When completed, the new enterprise will have a capacity of 10,000,000 feet of film per month.

The motoring public is rapidly coming to realize that in practical results the good Maxwell is to the four-cylinder field, what the Chrysler is in six-cylinder practice.

Practically complete absence of vibration, sterling reliability, new ease of riding and driving, remarkable performance, and equally remarkable economy produce for the owner of this car a far higher degree of motoring satisfaction and value.

Until you know first hand what the good Maxwell now is and what it does—you are simply in no position to judge cars from the standpoint of the most recent development.

People are still talking about Oakland Sealed Order Demonstration Week!

All over America, they became better automobile buyers by seeing Oakland's "week of proof"—or some part of it.

They know what Oakland will do, because they saw Oakland show features of design and performance that all other motor cars must eventually have.

If you did not have an opportunity last week to see why the True Blue Oakland is a year in advance of its field, drop in to-day or to-morrow, or any time.

Drive it yourself. Road-test this True Blue Car. Then you will know that Oakland is building one of to-day's very finest motor cars—and selling it at a very low price!

GENERAL TERMS PRIVATE REAL HERO OF WAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—"The real hero of the World war, after all, is the private soldier."

With these words Major-General Charles P. Summerall, U. S. A., distinguished military leader, closed a dramatic address before the Association of the Army of the United States at the Hotel St. Francis, General Summerall, speaking, by request, of his experiences in France, and using no notes, drew an intimate picture of events overseas in which he himself had played a conspicuous part.

Praises General Liggett

Besides the many tributes that the speaker paid to the buck private in the American army and his part in the winning of the war, the General lauded in the highest terms the role played in the war by Major-General Hunter Liggett, recently retired, who sat beside him at the luncheon.

"The American people will never know the vast number of lives of American soldiers overseas that were saved by the wisdom and the knowledge of war of General Liggett," declared General Summerall, after relating numerous incidents in which the superior leadership of General Liggett had manifested itself.

General Summerall told of one occasion when he visited a command that had been hard hit. He noted, he said, that though the men held an advanced position, they were carrying on in an excellent manner and had observed instructions to the letter. He called for the officer in command in order to commend him.

"No Officer Left"

"There is no officer left," came the reply.

Then he asked for a noncommissioned officer.

"All of them have been killed, too, General," a private responded.

When he inquired, finally, who was in charge of the outfit, the leader said:

"General, I guess I am."

"But aren't you a noncommissioned officer?" General Summerall asked.

"I was sir, but I've been 'busted,'" he got back.

This was typical of the spirit displayed throughout the war, he declared—a soldier, even though for some cause, demoted, still willing to lead.

A rare tribute to the long and distinguished services of General Summerall from the time he served at the Presidio thirty years ago to the part he played in the winning of the war was paid him by Colonel J. W. Williams, president of the San Francisco sector of the association, who presided at the meeting.

General Summerall was the guest of honor at a dinner given at the Hotel Wainwright by the members of the Bay cities unit of the Society of the First Division, which the General commanded overseas.

At the speakers' table were P. P. Merrick, president of the local unit of the organization; Captain J. P. Healy, chairman of the banquet committee; Major-General Groe Hutcheson, Colonel W. H. Tobin, Colonel B. H. Bash, Lieutenant-Colonel Stephen O. Fuqua and Lieutenant B. J. Dupree.

General Summerall, who left for Santa Barbara to visit friends and enjoy his first leave of absence in thirteen years. He is accompanied by Mrs. Summerall, his son, Lieutenant C. P. Summerall, Jr., and his aid, Lieutenant George J. Foster.

General Summerall will become the ranking general of the army January 15, upon the retirement of Major General C. G. Morton and Robert Lee Bullard.

JOINT BUS TARIFF APPLICATION FILED

Lewis A. Monroe as joint agent for the Crown Stage Lines here and the Motor Transit company, also operating in and out of Santa Ana, has applied to the railroad commission for authority to place in effect a joint passenger tariff of through fares between Riverside and Long Beach, served by the Crown Stage lines, on the one hand, and all points south of Santa Ana to and including San Diego, served by Motor Transit company, on the other hand. A similar application involving joint through passenger fares between Los Angeles and Big Bear lake, via Ontario, between Big Bear Air line, operating airplanes between Ontario and Big Bear lake on the one hand, and the Motor Transit company, operating airplanes between Los Angeles and Ontario, on the other hand, has been filed by Monroe.

Under the proposed schedule airplanes eastbound will leave Ontario daily at 5 p. m. and 9 a. m., Saturdays, and westbound airplanes will leave Big Bear lake daily at 10 a. m., connecting with motor stage service at Ontario.

SCHOOL ARCHITECT COMMITTEE NAMED

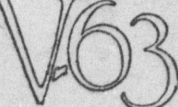

A new angle in the controversy between Dr. Roy S. Horton and other members of the Santa Ana board of education, in regard to the appointing of a full time architect to act as superintendent of school buildings here, was seen today when President Alex Brownridge, in accordance with a motion passed at the last meeting of the board, appointed a committee, outside the board members themselves, to investigate the advisability of creating such a position.

Due to the fact that Charles F. Smith, one of the members of the board, is in the East, only four members are left to vote, and the board seemed equally divided at the last meeting. By appointing a committee of board members to investigate the advisability of employing an architect, it would have been necessary to appoint at least one member who favored such a step, in that Brownridge could not appoint himself. Hence the appointment of outsiders.

The committee appointed by Brownridge consists of O. H. Barr, P. E. Liebig and E. T. McFadden. These men have been asked to report their findings to the board of education as soon as possible.

DODGE BROTHERS TYPE-B SEDAN

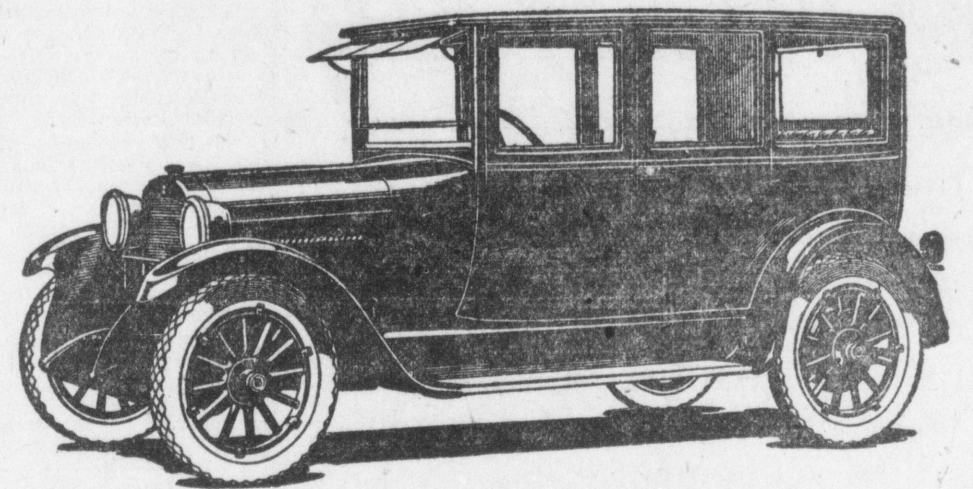

A woman will usually admire one thing about a car and a man another, but there is one feature of the new Type-B Sedan which both admire equally and emphatically—its exceptional driving ease.

This is due to a combination of several important improvements—a roomier front compartment; a readier clutch response; a new steering wheel that offers a trim, firm grip; and control levers that are ideally accessible, yet conveniently out of the way of robes and luggage.

At Open Car Cost ESSEX COACH

Built by Hudson

Genuine Balloon Tires Standard Equipment

The outstanding buying choice this year is "Closed Car Comforts at Open Car Cost." The Coach alone provides them. It is exclusive to Hudson and Essex. Everyone knows it gives highest closed car value. And because no other type of car shares its position it is the largest selling 6-cylinder closed car in the world.

Genuine Balloon Tires Enhance World's Greatest Value

Naturally when balloon tires had established their superiority Hudson and Essex would adopt them. They are now standard equipment. They add an even greater measure of riding ease, steadiness and good looks to the notable values of the Coach.

In workmanship, materials and design both Hudson and Essex are of one quality—built in the same factories, under the same patents. Your choice between them will rest solely on the price you want to pay.

You see the Coach everywhere in increasing numbers. Everyone wants closed car comforts. They will no longer accept half-utility when all-year usefulness and comforts cost no more in the Coach.

Consider how the growing trend to closed cars affects resale values. The diminishing demand for open cars means far faster depreciation in that type. As the wanted type, the Coach maintains exceptionally high resale value.

GRAHAM BROTHERS TRUCK OF TWO-TON CAPACITY ADDED TO CITY'S STREET DEPARTMENT

Here is the two-ton Graham Brothers dump truck recently delivered by O. A. Haley, distributor, to the city of Santa Ana for use in the collection of city garbage. Ernest Bracamontes (in the cab) and Caleb Rash, foreman of the street department, are the two men in the picture.

Efficiency of the street department in making collections of garbage in the city today had been increased by the addition of a Graham Brothers' truck of two tons capacity, purchased from O. A. Haley, distributor, W. G. Knox, street superintendent, announced today.

Pointing out that a tremendous increase in garbage developed in the city had necessitated more equipment, Knox said the Graham had been chosen because of its fitness for the work.

According to Haley, Graham Brothers truck sales in California for 1924 show an increase of more than 35 per cent, despite the fact that truck sales generally in the state had declined, as compared with the first seven months of 1923.

"The increase is largely due to the fine records of satisfactory performance and low cost of performance made by these trucks," Haley said.

Attempt to Direct Traffic by Radio Is Planned in S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Radio may be regularly employed as an aid to the San Francisco police in their nightly war against criminals.

Tomorrow night, for the first time here, Chief of Police O'Brien will try out a system of broadcasting instructions to detectives who cruise the streets in automobiles. This system has already been adopted in New York and Detroit.

The experiment tomorrow night will be conducted with the shotgun squad. Their automobile will be equipped with a receiving set and, standing at the microphone at the radio exposition, the chief will issue instructions.

Order Return of Dope Agent's Car

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The recent ruling of Federal Judge Partridge denying the government the right to confiscate automobiles seized in narcotic raids was adhered to yesterday by Federal Judge Kerrigan in returning to the legal owner a touring car taken in a recent case. The car was operated by Angelo Scafina, fined $500 in April for selling narcotics. The motion was made by Attorney Joseph Connolly, representing the National Surety company, legal owners of the automobile.

TRAIL BLAZERS STRICTLY REO MEN, CLAIM

"It is typical of the manner in which the Reo Motor Car company does things, that the three men making up the crew of the Reo sedan bus, now engaged in blazing a new transportation trail across the continent, are strictly Reo men, not 'stunt' drivers," says H. H. Dale, of Dale and company, Reo representatives here.

"To the average man there is something 'theatrical' about the runs made by professional 'record-breakers,' who have no other connection with the cars they use on the trips than to put them over a given route attracting as much attention as they can on the way."

"When a group of men who have worked on one make of car for years start out with one of their newest models to do something never before tried, there is something about it that makes it real and worth watching."

Burglar Is Routed by Woman and Dog

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 23.—An ax in the hands of an irate housewife and a pet collie dog put to rout a burglar who was discovered in the home of Mrs. E. Mitchell, 2148 B street. Mrs. Mitchell set the dog upon the intruder, and when the animal attacked him she struck the burglar with an ax. The burglar succeeded in getting away but Mrs. Mitchell told Sheriff Ellis-Jones that she is positive she left the imprint of the ax in the man's back.

NASH 8TH YEAR BEGINNING IS CELEBRATED

The Nash Motors company, Kenosha, Wis., celebrated its eighth anniversary August 16, according to W. C. May, of the May Motor company, local Nash dealer.

"Added interest invests the event since it follows hard on the heels of the tremendously successful introduction of two entirely new lines of six-cylinder cars and at a time when the company is at the peak of its eight years' progress," May said.

Though considerably the youngest of ten great automobile companies credited with building 85 per cent of the country's total annual output, the Nash Motors company is today on a production scale almost half again as large as the entire volume of the industry in 1907.

"In reviewing the record of the company, President C. W. Nash pointed to the fact that although the start was made August 16, 1916, scarcely six months prior to our entrance into the World war, nevertheless the company's advancement during the elapsed eight years has been one of the most brilliant in American industrial annals. The output the first fifteen months was 12,173 cars and trucks as contrasted with a production the eighth year of close to 57,000. Value of the volume in dollars and cents for this last year was four times as great as that of the initial fifteen month period.

"A glance at the payroll record provides another dramatic picture of the rapidity with which the Nash Motors company has forged to the front as an employer of labor. The first year the company employed 3125 men, while today there are nearly 7200 men employed."

CONTRACT FOR GRADING SEA ROAD LET

Orange county today was favored with the last contract for highway construction to be awarded by the state highway commission under the present method of financing. The commission awarded to W. D. McCray of Los Angeles, on a bid of $108,310, the contract for grading five and two-tenths miles of coast boulevard between Corona Del Mar and Laguna Beach.

This information was contained in a telegram sent here from Sacramento by N. T. Edwards, former supervisor of Orange county and now a member of the state highway commission.

The message disclosed that McCray's bid was the lowest received by the commission, which opened bids earlier in the week. The highest bid was $173,375, and the engineering estimate for the work was $159,809. Twenty-two bids were submitted.

The commission has made it known that the Orange county project has increased the value of awarded contracts to $750,000, and the state officials, therefore, would undertake no further road building until a new method of financing road construction is adopted.

The former Orange county supervisor, who was said to have been largely responsible for the prompt action taken by the state commission on the Corona Del Mar-Laguna Beach contract, predicted early completion of the grading of this section of the coast highway.

Kidnaping Case Is Heard in S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The trial of Frank Bruno, one of three men who on November 9 last kidnaped, beat and robbed Mimi Imperato, former opera impresario and local safe owner, and then threatened to throw him in the bay when the police interfered, began before a jury in Superior Judge Ward's court yesterday morning. The other two men accused of a part in the kidnaping are Pietro La Fata, who will be tried for the same offense on August 27, and John Lerosa, who is a fugitive from justice, having abandoned his bail of $2500.

ESSAY CONTEST PRIZE WON BY GIRL AT H. B.

Miss Clara Almond, of the central grammar school at Huntington Beach, won second prize, a silver medal and $10 cash, in the contest for best essays in the 1923 national safety campaign, conducted by the Highway Education Board of Washington, D. C. It was announced here today by Elmer Heldt, manager of the Santa Ana branch of the Auto Club of Southern California.

A check for the cash prize had been forwarded to Miss Almond today, according to Heldt. Presentation of the medal will be made when school opens for the fall term, the manager added.

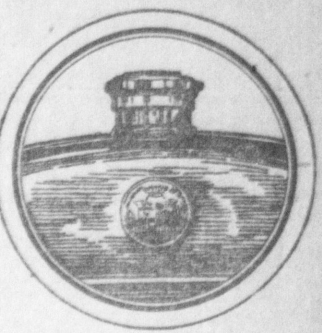

Appropriate ceremonies will attend the presentation.

The first prize, a gold medal and $15, was won by Ruth A. Rosedale of the Canright school at Rio Vista, Calif.

"The fact that out of the fifteen young California winners in the national contest, thirteen were won from Southern California indicates the excellent progress being made in teaching safety in the public schools in this section," Heldt said. "The public safety department of the club, under the direction of E. B. Lefferts, is co-operating with boards of education in many Southern California cities in a thorough and systematic study of auto safety. That pupils are grasping the fundamentals and importance of this course is attested by their success in the national campaign competition."

TEACHER PICKS WRONG AUTO; SLUMBERS

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 23.—Martha Potter, pretty Kansas school teacher, is today recovering from a near kidnapping experience.

Martha, or "Pat," as she is called, has been "doing" California with two other charming Kansas school marmes, Miss Thelma Werne of Pittsburg, Kans., and Miss Margaret LaMont, Enders, Kans.

None had ever enjoyed sea fishing off the Newport pier, so shortly after midnight, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Dudgeon and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mulholland of Santa Ana, they came down for an early morning sport.

But "Pat," who had been "taking in" all of Southern California, was tired out. So she left the merry bunch on the pier to take a nap in one of the autos of the party. Just as dawn was breaking Mr. Dudgeon missed her.

The alarm was given of a missing girl and searching parties started out.

The young woman had climbed into the wrong car and gone to sleep. The owner had started for Santa Ana without examining the tonneau. At Santa Ana the young woman awoke and asked to get out. A telephone call re-established location and contact with her friends.

"That young lady sure gave us a bad scare," said Mr. Dudgeon.

"Gee, I had the time of my life," smiled "Pat," as with her three friends they boarded the train today for their home. "I'm going back to Pittsburg and tell 'em all about the ocean and Southern California, and say 'any of you folks need a good teacher just write me at 417 West 8th street, Pittsburg, Kansas, and I'll be here on the next train.'"

FINE GRAPES ARE GROWN AT HARBOR

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 23.—Although Newport Beach is noted for its excellent resort and bathing facilities, it now claims, modestly, to other and more lofty things, to wit, agricultural supremacy.

Enter one Joe Records and his pal, L. F. Nafziger with a cluster of Rosy Peru grapes, weighing 12½ pounds and grown in the sand. As the grapes were weighed in this newspaper office before witnesses, the size and breadth of the cluster, must stand unchallenged.

Grapes have long been grown with marked success on this beach, as notice the immense amount that John McMillan gets every year from a small arbor. Record lives at 20th street and Central avenue. This particular gathering of grapes was taken from the top of the roof, to where the vine had climbed.

Dynamiters Are Sought in L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—Identity of persons who dynamited a power plant and warehouse of the Hollingsworth company at a gravel pit near Lomita remained a mystery today, although disgruntled former employees of the firm were charged with the crime.

The dynamite was presumably stolen from the company's own power house. Damage to the plant amounted to about $5000, it was estimated.

FULLERTON MASONS BANQUET

FULLERTON, Aug. 23.—Azure lodge of the local Masons held a banquet in the warehouse of the last night following an initiation of the third degree on a number of candidates. The Rev. Walter Thornton delivered a fine talk after the dinner.

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Back Weak and Painful. Mrs. Miller Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rotan, Tex.—"I am writing to let you know how I have benefited by taking your medicine. After my second baby was born my back was weak and hurt continually. I thought I'd try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had read so much about where it had helped so many women. I had been bothered with my back for over a year, and it would hurt me until I could not do my work, which is keeping house for three and cooking and washing dishes. I tell all my friends if they have any kind of female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. You may use this testimonial if it will help any one."—Mrs. C. R. MILLER, R.F.D. No. 1, Box 76, Rotan, Texas.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

81 YEAR OLD MAN PLUNGES INTO SURF AT SEAL BEACH TO RESCUE 2 YEAR OLD BOY

SEAL BEACH, Aug. 23.—A. R. Bustamante proved that age is no barrier when necessity calls for prompt and unselfish action when he rescued Bobbie George, 2-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley George, from drowning, west of the Seal Beach pier Wednesday.

A life for a life is often the heavy toll paid, but Mr. Bustamante did not hesitate to risk his life to save the world's young life with all its possibilities, possibilities that for those of advanced years are well known past.

After the excitement was over and Bobbie pronounced out of danger Mrs. George realized that she had not expressed the gratitude she felt for the hero of the occasion. The man who had placed her baby safely in her arms, acknowledged her broken sobs of thanks with a smile, and disappeared.

Later Mrs. George found the life saver in a little house on Eighth street. It was then she learned the rescuer was A. R. Bustamante of San Bernardino, who had come here to visit his son. Mr. Bustamante is 81 years old.

An unkink fate has beset the path of Bobbie George, the child having recently suffered from an attack of infantile paralysis though fortunately the disease did not leave its crippling after-effect. The father is a contractor and at present is engaged near Bakersfield. He expects to take over a number of building contracts at the new plant of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation here later.

Hartranft Takes His Campaign to Pier Fishermen

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 23.—A new method of approach by a candidate for office was sprung on the fishermen and women of Newport today, when S. C. Hartranft, candidate for assembly, addressed 200 persons on the ocean end of Newport pier.

For several minutes the fishermen refused to leave their hooks and lines, but when the speaker swung into a resume of economies to be effected, what he could do toward harbor development, etc., they crowded about him and began to cheer, with the result that the people on shore came rushing out to see what the trouble was all about.

P. Peracovich of Newport Had Colorful Career

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 23.—Death ended the eventful career of one of Newport Beach's best known citizens, when Peter Peracovich, dropped dead Saturday night at his pretty home on Coast boulevard, aged 67 years. Funeral services were held Wednesday and burial was in Fairhaven cemetery, Santa Ana.

"Pete," as he was affectionately known by practically every citizen in the harbor district, came here 18 years ago from Mexico, where he spent his early life. He was a fine linguist and had seven different languages at his command, speaking French, Italian, Greek, Spanish, Slavonian, Arabic and English quite fluently. He had been interpreter both in the courts here and at Santa Ana, and had a wide acquaintanceship among many of the prominent older citizens of Southern California.

As brave a man as ever walked the earth, "Pete" respected the rights of others and also demanded a similar just return for himself. Which a lad he entered the German navy, but rejecting the harshness of the service, escaped by swimming three miles to the mainland of France. It was while in that country he learned the language. According to his son, John, his early years were full of spice and adventure. At one time while employed by the British government, he became shipwrecked, was thrown on an island and lived on monkey meat and wild fruit for weeks before rescued.

"Pete" was sent to Mexico while still a young man by an English syndicate and had charge of the building of breakwaters at Vera Cruz and Tampico. When he was 37 years old he married, but after seven years of happy wedded life, his wife died. This was in 1890. Considerably dispirited he decided to leave Mexico, and having amassed a small fortune, to make a tour of Europe with his small son. He traveled in Spain, Italy, Egypt, where he was a guest of honor on one occasion, and also visited the Vatican.

"Pete's" early days were active. He sailed the seven seas. He was a friend of President Diaz of Mexico and aided him in the revolution. At one time he smuggled gunpowder into France to keep the soldiers in arms. He was born in Serbia, but the proudest moment of his life was when he received his naturalization papers from Uncle Sam.

DANA POINT CLUB ISSUES BOOKLET

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 23.—The Dana Point Yacht and Country club has recently completed their prospectus, setting forth the aim and reason for building this club. The club is dedicated to the lovers of sport and will give them every opportunity to enjoy their favorite sport in the most desirable surroundings.

Lovely sketches and cuts depict the shore as it is and gives one a good idea of what the finished clubhouse, golf course and grounds will be like.

The club recently purchased a large tract of land from the holdings of the San Juan Point corporation, this land lying just back from the proposed Coast boulevard and commanding a beautiful view of both the coast line and the mountains of the beautiful Capistrano valley.

OCEANSIDE PLANS HUGE CARNIVAL

OCEANSIDE, Aug. 23.—Oceanside plans to entertain next month at a "beach carnival and rodeo," which will attract thousands of visitors to that favored place. A five days' program has been prepared combined most of the better features of western entertainment with seaside sports. The carnival and rodeo will start Friday, September 12, and continue until the following Tuesday. J. Chauncey Hayes Jr., in charge of the program promises interesting events each day.

The program as outlined by Hayes includes a national "Defense Test Day parade," an exhibition of fireworks and dancing at the Strand pavilion. A race program for the next day includes a 600-yard horse race, best two in three heats, for a purse of $400; a 100-yard race for ponies, purse $20; tilting at rings; foot races among men and boys and a speed contest between horses and motors.

For Sunday, September 14, a 500-yard handicap horse race will carry a $500 prize; a quarter-mile dash, a $25 prize; a ladies' saddle horse race, $20; tilting at rings for a $5 prize, and a fat men's race with a $5 reward for the survivor. Fast horses meet again Monday in a 600-yard handicap; ponies and small ponies and ladies' saddle horses also are scheduled to race. Tuesday, the final day, will be Derby day, and the pick of the horses will race for a $100 purse over the 700-yard route, best two out of three. A quarter-mile dash, a consolation race, saddle horse race, tilting contest and other events will feature the wind-up. Rodeo numbers will be held during the week with dancing each night.

Construction of New Auditorium at Beach Rushed

SEAL BEACH, Aug. 23.—The school auditorium and annex of Seal Beach public school building are nearing completion. Work is now being done on the old building. Manual training and cooking equipment and tables are being placed in part of the old building. The auditorium is well arranged with a good stage and dressing rooms and will seat 400. Final reports work will be completed and school will commence September 8.

There are still one or two vacancies on the faculty. Teachers have not been hired for the second and seventh grades. Clarence J. Smith, superintendent last year, and many of his teachers have been re-elected to serve this year.

Miss Jennie Martin left yesterday for New York. On her way to the east she will visit in Texas and St. Louis and then go on to New York City. Miss Martin is a composer and singer but has not taken active interest in music for some time owing to illness and family life in the family. She has arranged to publish her music and it is partly for this that she is making the trip to New York.

Son Is Born to Hollywood Stars

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 23.—Congratulations were in order in Hollywood today with announcement of the arrival of a new infant in one of the studio's most prominent film families.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kirkwood, the latter better known as Lila Lee, petite brunette actress, are the parents of the youngster, a husky son.

The Kirkwoods were married in June, 1923. A short time later Kirkwood did a Prince of Wales off a horse, which kept him out of pictures for several weeks.

Pleads Guilty But Changes His Mind

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Maurice Hickok, arrested on Turk street on May 10 on a charge of driving while drunk, pleaded guilty, he told Superior Judge Ward yesterday, because he thought it would only cost him a fine. But when told he would be sent to jail, Hickok, through his attorney, John Taaffe, had a change of heart and urged that he be allowed to plead not guilty. Judge Ward said he would decide tomorrow.

Seal Beach Council Considers New Tax Rate of $1.85

SEAL BEACH, Aug. 23.—An ordinance fixing the apportionment of the rate of taxation on city property at $1.85 for the ensuing year was given the second reading at the meeting of the city council. The levy is apportioned as follows: General fund, 70 cents; sewer, 40 cents; water, 45 cents; light, 10 cents; streets, 20 cents.

The advisability of including in the budget a special tax for the creation of an advertising and entertainment fund was suggested by A. W. Armstrong and opposed by A. E. Swain. Chairman R. D. Richards stated that it was too late to properly present the suggestion to the taxpayers, as action must be taken at once on the proposed apportionment, and the suggestion was tabled.

FISHERMEN AT LAGUNA MAKE GOOD HAULS

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 23.—Local fishermen are looking more cheerful lately as albacore have been running good the past week. Sport fishing has been excellent lately and some good catches have been exhibited by surf fishermen.

Many a "tired business man" has been known to sit on a hard rock all day, taking time only for meals, and then come home empty-handed with tales of the "nibbles." Undaunted by numerous failures and determined not to let outdone ne goos through the next morning. Late in the story has varied, fish have been biting and many a "tired" man has had that "drawing feeling" and landed some good sized fish.

Oscar Farman of the Farman Fish Market and Bob Towell have worked at all hours to procure sufficient bait to keep the sport fishermen "on the rocks." Mr. Farman states that one night when the tide was lowest he and Mr. Towell undertook six bags of mussels. This has nothing of the glamour of sport fishing because a mussel will not put up a fight, although they adhere persistently to their original standpoint.

George Jones, John Derkum and others have made lobster traps and piled them up to resemble young pyramids, waiting for the "fiftenth" to come. Judging from the traps that are prepared at this early date, the fishermen are looking for a bountiful harvest of "bugs."

About 20 friends and relatives called on Mrs. Frank C. Payton Jr. to help her celebrate her birthday Wednesday evening. The evening was pleasantly spent with music and dancing. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served. Those who made up this merry party were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Porter and son Lee, of Fullerton, Madeline, Lilly and Desmond Payton of Norwalk, Bud Thompson of Belvedere Gardens and Lloyd Seabridge, Ted Payton, Stanley Berkey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Snyder, Bertha and Mabel Robinson, Helen Page and Jut Spohn of Buena Park, Jesse Gray of Artesia and Misses Marjorie and Mary Berckhan of Brooklyn, Iowa.

Matt was arrested at Sixth and Harrison by Detective Arthur Morrison and State Pharmacy Inspector J. F. McCarthy, who wanted Matt on charges of violating the state poison law. They searched Matt, but didn't find what they sought. That didn't faze McCarthy. He ran his fingers through Matt's long loose hair and found a hairpin. He withdrew the pin, and with it came a little folded packet containing narcotics. Five times more McCarthy probed and fetched hairpinned bindles. And now Matt Conway's in the jailhouse.

Sewer Line at Placentia Going Ahead Rapidly

FULLERTON, Aug. 23.—Better progress now is being made with the 12-inch main sewer line which will afford Placentia connections with the joint outfall. It was stated today by L. Wayne McCollum, engineer for the Placentia sanitary district. Owing to drifting sand much difficulty has been experienced with cave-ins on some portions of the line. More solid ground now has been reached by the excavators.

More than half of the link, which will be approximately 4¼ miles in length, has already been laid to date. The pipe has been installed beyond the railroad crossing coming east towards Spadra Junction will be effected at Nicola avenue where the Fullerton section of the outfall takes a swing northerly to Commonwealth avenue.

Plans are being completed for the lateral connections in the Placentia sanitary district. Bids are to be advertised at an early date so that construction can be commenced just as soon as the outfall is ready.

Fullerton Sends Kiwanis Delegate

FULLERTON, Aug. 23.—The Fullerton Kiwanis Club is being represented at the Kiwanis district trustees conference today at the Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, by Dale King, district lieutenant-governor and past president of the local club; Albert Launer, past president, and Harry Maxwell, trustees. Topics of interest to all members of the organization are being taken up and this afternoon there will be talks and an open forum. Dr. George C. Pardee, former state governor, will give an address on "Protection of Our Watersheds."

PUENTE BAKER FINED

FULLERTON, Aug. 23.—Found guilty of an infraction of a city ordinance which provides that all persons or firms engaged in business here must first take out a license, John Moura, 39, baker of Puente, was yesterday assessed a fine of $15 for the offense by Judge H. E. Hart. He was supplying bread to a local firm.

LAGUNA BEACH ATHLETES TO COMPETE

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 23.—C. Cravath, better known as "Gavy" Cravath, is busy lining up the program for the annual athletic event to be held at Skidmore Park in Laguna Canyon on or near Armistice Day. The committee has not decided whether it will be on Armistice or earlier in the fall.

Last year the hill climb for young men was the main event, the contestants are to climb the hill to a point designated, choosing their own path and descending the same way. This requires agility and endurance and only the most able-bodied can hope to win.

Mr. Cravath declared that there will be foot races for both men and women and if requested a pie-eating contest for fat men.

During the forenoon the program will consist of trap shooting for prizes and a number of the best "shots" in Orange county will be there to compete for the prize.

GARAGE HERE ADDS EXPERT MECHANICS

Charles Christopherson, owner of the "C. A." garage at 211 French street, today announced that George Carey and John Dahm have been added to his force of expert mechanics. Identified for a number of years with Knox and Stout, former Ford agents here, Carey will give special attention to contract work on Ford automobiles, Christopherson said.

"Dahm is an expert on the repair of automobile fenders and bodies," Christopherson said. "This type of work will be done by contract."

"Operating here for two years, I have demonstrated by building up a successful business, the value of contract work—that is, doing repair work for a specific sum named before real work is begun."

Orange County's Affairs Merit the Attention of Her Best Men

Shall we not send one of our best to the California assembly? Assuredly. Who, then, is competent to deal with our problems to the best advantage? The answer is plain. The man among us who has dealt with them most successfully in Orange county is best fitted to represent our interests in the assembly.

What Are These Problems?

THE FARMER'S PROBLEM: S. C. Hartranft is a citrus grower. The growers of his district have elected him president of the Anaheim Citrus Association. He is also chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Anaheim Union Water Company. He stands for reduction of the cost of government.

THE BUSINESS MAN'S PROBLEM: S. C. Hartranft is a director of two Anaheim banks. The business men have faith in him.

THE SCHOOL PROBLEM: S. C. Hartranft is president of the Fullerton Union High School board. He has had 28 years experience as an educator.

THE MORAL PROBLEM: S. C. Hartranft stands for law enforcement, the Volstead act and the Wright act. He has always stood in the forefront of the fight for civic decency. He stands for the ratification of the Child Labor amendment to the federal constitution.

These are the facts that make up the record of S. C. Hartranft in Orange county affairs. Measure the man by your standard of ability and integrity.

If he is honest; if he is able; if he is clean; if he is constructive and forward-looking, then he is the man to whom your interests in the state legislature may be safely entrusted.

"UNGUARDED WOMEN" AT YOST MONDAY

Alan Crosland makes his debut as a producer with the release of "Unguarded Women," which begins a two-day run at the Yost theater Monday.

China, with its age-old civilization, is the interesting background of this gripping photoplay.

The unusual theme of the photoplay is bound to create a spirited discussion. The story concerns a man who sacrifices himself to save the widow of his friend whose death he inadvertently caused on the battlefield during the war.

We can think of no one who is better fitted for the part of the gay and reckless widow than vivacious Bebe Daniels; handsome, virile Richard Dix is the ideal type of "the man of honor," and Mary Astor, with her winsome beauty is perfectly cast in the appealing role of the "true-blue" fiancée.

Hat Shoppe, 610 N. Main.

"LEND ME YOUR HUSBAND" AT YOST TOMORROW

A theme that is at once poignant and striking comes to the Yost theater screen tomorrow. It is titled "Lend Me Your Husband."

Christy Cabanne, the director, has told a very convincing tale in which he depicts society life exactly as it is. It deals with the continual "lending" of husbands and other such things by a society belle whose beauty and charm allow her to get away with her pranks.

The settings take place in gorgeous homes of the rich, an exquisitely furnished country club, and aboard the S. S. Paris of the French line. All of these surroundings are handled with rare skill and make for a production that is at once interesting and lavish.

Included in the list of players are such splendid screen stars as Doris Kenyon, David Powell, Dolores Cassinelli, J. Barney Sherry, Violet Mersereau, Connie Keefe, Burr McIntosh and Russell Griffin.

"THE STEADFAST HEART" NEXT AT WALKER

A truly great picture is "The Steadfast Heart" which opens at Walker's theater tomorrow. It has that element of appeal and inspiration coupled with the necessary dramatic incidents and comedy relief which have marked all the real successes of the past decade.

No better scenes of child life have ever been filmed than those of "The Steadfast Heart." This is the first time any one has really caught the spirit of American boyhood that Mark Twain immortalized in Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. The producer was fortunate in having obtained such a capable group of youngsters as those included in the cast of the picture. Joe Dewey, Sherry Tansey, Jerry Devine and Miriam Battista all have that distinctly necessary dramatic asset, the ability to appear natural and act naturally at the same time.

Helene Chadwick achieves a real triumph in the screen version of Ethel M. Dell's popular story "Her Own Free Will," which the Yost theater offers tonight.

It is no news when we say Helene is charming, for she always has been, but we can say she is at her very best as Nan Everard, the self-willed, impulsive, yet kind-hearted girl who married for money in order to save her father from bankruptcy. We didn't blame her husband for refusing to release her when she said her marriage was a mistake for she is a regular girl, one with brains and spirit enough to do what she thinks is right and then do an "about face" when she realizes she is wrong.

To get the divorce, Nan goes away with Jerry Lister, a childhood pal, whom she never doubts. She learns with bitterness that Jerry is not half so decent as her stern husband whom after all, she has treated rather shabbily. It is the conflict of wills between Nan and her husband that makes the picture so gripping.

The cast is small but most competent. Holmes Herbert is excellent as the stern husband; Allan Simpson is good as Jerry and praise is also due George Backus as Nan's father and Violet Mersereau as her sister.

"THE WOMAN ON THE JURY" AT TEMPLE TONIGHT

There was an air of intense excitement in the jury room, for the first vote had been cast and were being counted. The twelve jurors leaned forward eagerly. What would be the verdict. Would the slip of a girl, on trial for her life, be found guilty or not guilty?

The teller finished his task and looked up grimly.

"Eleven for conviction and one for acquittal," he announced.

The eleven men on the jury looked at each other accusingly. All had hoped for an unanimous verdict, in order that they might leave for home. The twelfth juror—a girl—started into space, an expression of mixed emotions on her face.

She had voted "not guilty."

This is the startling denouement of "The Woman on the Jury," which will be shown at the Temple theater tonight and tomorrow.

Sylvia Breamer plays the role of the woman juror, others in the cast being Frank Mayo, who enacts the role of her husband, Lew Cody, Bessie Love, Mary Carr, Myrtle Steadman, Hobart Bosworth, Henry B. Walthall, Roy Stewart, Jean Hersholt, Ford Sterling, Arthur Lubin, Stanton Heck, Fred Warren, Arthur S. Hull, Kewpie King, J. Edward Davis and Leo White.

Elks barbecue Sunday, August 24, on way to Modjeska home. Elks only.

Knives, shears sharpened at Hawley's.

"DESIRE" CLOSING TONIGHT AT WALKER'S

"Desire," a special production, is now the feature at Walker's theater. It is full of thrilling action and strong drama, and contains many scenes of great beauty, particularly one of a fashionable wedding held out-of-doors amid great splendor and lavishness.

A brilliant cast of well-known players appear in "Desire." Among these are Marguerite De La Motte, John Bowers, Estelle Taylor and David Butler.

FIFTIETH TOM MIX FILM HERE TOMORROW

"The Heart Buster," the latest production starring Tom Mix, which will come to the West End theater tomorrow has two important reasons why you should not miss it. The first of these is the fact that it is the fiftieth picture in which William Fox features his western star, thereby creating a record unsurpassed in the annals of the motion picture industry. The second is the picture itself, which is better than the average "western."

There is a thrill in every foot of the entire film which centers around a scheming foreign crook winning the girl with whom Mix, a young ranchman, is deeply in love. When the girl announces her intention of marrying the foreigner Tom leaves her in a cogitating mood. He cannot banish the picture of the successful lover from his brain with the result that he recalls him in another part which was nowise honorable.

He rushes to tell the girl of his discovery, but his unsupported charges only cause the girl to announce more firmly her intention of marrying the man.

With the job of substantiating the charges on his hands Tom flies into action. He stops at nothing and finally lands in jail as the result of kidnapping the justice of peace and minister in an attempt to delay the wedding ceremony.

With the aid of Tony, his wonder horse, he makes a dramatic, but uproariously funny escape from the battle. In the meantime the foreign crook is about to lead the girl up the steps to the altar when Tom suddenly breaks in with the evidence.

"Clinging Fingers," Virginia Valli's new starring vehicle, just completed, will be released to the public under the title of "The Price of Pleasure." This title was chosen by the New York committee to replace the working title used during production. Norman Kerry and Louise Fabenda appeared with the star.

Hoot Gibson, Universal's Western star, is walking with a cane and a limp as the result of an accident in the filming of his new starring vehicle "The Cactus Kid." Gibson fell, climbing a fence, sustaining a badly sprained ankle.

Josef Swickard, famous character actor, has just finished his first western role. The delineator of aristocratic types played a pioneer of the range opposite Jack Hoxie in "Sign of the Cross" before hurrying back from Sonora to join the Svend Gade unit starring Mary Philbin in "Miss Vanity." Others in the Hoxie cast are Helen Holmes, former noted serial star, P. Gordon Russell, Francis Ford, and Frank Newburg.

"The Husbands of Edith," Geo. Barr McCutcheon's novel, filmed with Reginald Denny, Laura La Plante, and an all star cast, will be released to the public under the title of "The Lightning Lover."

The NERVOUS WRECK

by E. J. Rath

©1924 by NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The "Nervous Wreck," an eccentric young easterner, is driving Sally Morgan from her father's ranch to the station when they run out of gasoline. At the point of a gun the Wreck takes five gallons from a passing car.

Later Charlie McSwain, foreman of a ranch along the route, hides the Wreck's car and forces Sally to act as cook. Then they discover that Mr. Underwood, the owner of the ranch, was in the car which they held up. Sheriff Bob Wells, Sally's husband, is unwittingly searching the flanks of the "bandits" who hold up the Wreck. Charlie McSwain, the one owned by the bandits, denies knowing how the car came to be on the ranch, but in secret asks the Wreck for an explanation. The Wreck is telling the story of the passing car.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Suppose," continued the Wreck, as he glared through his spectacles, "that you happened to be stranded with your wife out in the middle of a county that's so big there isn't any sense to it. Suppose you didn't have a drop of gas. Suppose somebody came along who had plenty of gas, and you offered in a decent manner to pay for a few gallons if they'd let you have it. And suppose a big hog sat back in his seat and gave you the laugh and told you to get busy and push your car out of his way, so he could drive on. And suppose you had to have that gas or stay there until God knows when. Hey?"

His voice had shrilled itself to an edge and he was making gestures with both arms.

"All right; I'm supposin'," said Charlie.

"Well, what would you do?"

"Speakin' hypothetical, you mean?"

"Speaking any way you like," barked the Wreck.

Charlie rubbed his chin and appeared to consider the problem.

"I reckon," he drawled, "I'd try to get me some gas."

The Wreck waved an arm to indicate that all doubts were resolved.

"That's all there was to it," he said.

"Mind, now," said Charlie, cautiously, "I'm not sayin' that I'd feel drove to committin' unlawful acts. Gettin' gasoline, you might say, is meetin' one of the demands of nature, and I reckon it can be justified by powerful arguments. But when it comes to takin' people's watches and jewelry and—"

"They lied!" interrupted the Wreck.

"I'm only repeatin' what was told the sheriff," said Charlie.

"I say they lied."

"I guess we're showin' all hands on the call," mused Charlie.

"I'm getting tired of all this lyin'," said the Wreck, sliding off the table. "I can stop it in three minutes."

He was headed for the door when Sally detained him with a firm hand.

"Henry, are you crazy?"

"I'm sore."

"You stay right here. I don't care whether you're sore or not. You're not going near Mr. Underwood."

"Why doesn't he stick to the truth, then?"

"I haven't the least idea. I don't particularly care. But you keep away from him."

The Wreck shook himself loose from her grip and went back to the table. Charlie McSwain nodded his approval.

"There ain't any occasion to get excited," he said. "You might as well up there and tell him he's a liar and bust him in the eye. But that wouldn't be no compensation for sittin' in jail over at the county seat, waitin' for 'em to give you the rest of your natural life."

"I'm not going to stay here for the rest of my natural life," growled the Wreck.

"There ain't any need," said Charlie. "How long are you figurin' on?"

"I figure I'm goin' to need you and Miss Williams so long as the boss and his family are here."

"How long is that?"

Charlie seemed to be calculating.

"Not more'n a month, it ain't likely."

Sally gasped.

"A month!" she cried. "Why, we won't dream of it!"

"I'm sure sorry, ma'am. But he's most always stays a month."

"We've stayed longer now than we had any business to."

"We're all creatures in the guidin' hands of Providence," observed Charlie. "A month ain't much in the lives of young folks."

Sally was showing plain signals of alarm. She fell to clasping and unclasping her hands and moistening her lips, while her eyes blinked with bewilderment and consternation. Finally she began walking to and fro.

"I won't do it!" she exclaimed. "A month! Not another day, if I can help it. You haven't any business to keep us here. Do you think I'm going to stay here and be anybody's slave, cooking your meals and doing the kitchen work for a lot of able-bodied men who are too lazy to help themselves? Yes, and doing the housework, too. I won't stand for it!"

Charlie looked interested, and so did the Wreck.

"Just because I've been good-natured about it," stormed Sally, "no reason why I'm going to let anybody rub it in. I don't care what happens. I'm through! I'm going to find out—"

The Wreck was patting her on the arm.

"Ssh, now," he said. "Go easy."

She flung his hand aside and turned on him with a look of amazement.

"Henry Williams, are you a worm?"

"That's all right," he said in a voice that tried to be soothing. "You're not going to go running yourself into trouble."

"You mean to say you're going to submit?" she demanded.

"There, now; you mustn't get excited," said the Wreck. "For an instant she was without speech."

"Excited? You say that I'm excited? You? Why—why—"

"SOMETIMES SHE GETS A LITTLE NERVOUS SPELL,"

they had not changed their minds. "It's what I call a point," said Charlie. "Is what in blazes can you do? You ain't goin' to navigate way far on three wheels, and anyhow, you're goin' to get hopped on the minute you try. That's the practical side. Now, personally, I'm disposed to be reasonable. I ain't givin' any endorsements to the habit of highway robbery. Bein' law abidin' myself, it may be I'm prejudiced, but that's the way I feel. At the same time, I ain't sayin' but what there may be occasions when it's justifiable to make use of gasoline wherever it can be found handiest. That, I reckon, is the sentimental side. They sort of balance off, as near as I see it."

"Get down to cases," advised the Wreck.

"I'm comin' to it. I'll put it blunt, maybe, but I'm sincere, as always. I'm not goin' to let you young folks go diggin' out of here just because you feel restless. I've got a duty to my boss and a duty to myself. I ain't goin' to say anything to him, mind. I've done considerable lyin' up to now, which is a sort of guarantee that I'll perform such other lyin' as may be necessary. I've even gone so far as to get myself looked upon with suspicion. But if you try bustin' loose out of here and leavin' me flat, with no cook and no dishwasher, and takin' your flivver with you as a sign of guilt, the whole durned temple is due to be pulled down sudden and ruthlessly. He eyed them both with great gravity.

"It may be, Henry," he added, "that when she comes down the foreman of this God-fearin' establishment is goin' to be buried along with them that starts the wreckin' job. But she's comin' down, just the same. I ain't hankerin' for ruin, but on the subject of cooks I'm a desperate man."

"HAPPY BE XVII Find the Wheel

"The breaking point had come," and Sally and the Wreck both admitted it. They spent all forenoon planning the getaway. Charlie McSwain committed an error in applied psychology when he mentioned the probability of a month at the Underwood ranch. To the Wreck, who was merely out west for his nerves, it might have been no great matter, although he did not fancy his environment. But to Sally it was a prospect of unutterable dismay, and the Wreck was there to serve her. She should have been in Chicago before this; Ma Morgan ought to be getting the first letters. In the absence of news, there would soon be panic at the Bar-M. Dad Morgan would be running the county, or starting for Chicago, or gunning for the Wreck, or doing something else desperate and foolish.

But there was a flivver wheel to be found, and neither of them had even encountered a clue. They devoted part of the morning to searching for it, and tried to be systematic about it. Sally took the house, which she ransacked from top to bottom, while the Wreck gave his time to a close inspection of such other possible hiding places as suggested themselves to him. Both shook their heads when they met to report.

VICTORIOUS

Boyd, Local Heaver, Fans
Fourteen, Grants Only Seven Safe Swats.

The Kelley Drug company team, Santa Ana's representative in the Southern California Night Indoor Baseball league, registered its first victory of the championship season last night when it defeated the Ontario club, 9 to 5. The contest was played at Ontario.

Eddie Boyd, a newcomer to the local ranks, was on the firing line for the Kelleys and his underhand slants baffled the Ontario batsmen completely until the last of the ninth inning when they scored three of their five runs.

Santa Ana pushed over three markers in the second frame and followed with one in the second, two in the third, one in the seventh and two in the eighth. Ontario counted once in the third and another in the sixth, winding up with its three-run rally in the final canzo.

Boyd had fourteen strikeouts while the enemy pitcher was able to whiff but two Santa Anans. Boyd allowed only seven hits while Santa Ana was "slamming" out eight-teen.

Kelly No Match For Detroit Boy

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—Leading over the entire route, Bob Sage, Detroit middleweight, won a decision over Tom Kelly, in the main event of the Hollywood boxing bill last night.

The Detroit had a clean edge in the battle, beating Kelly in every round.

Gene Delmont, substituting for Joe Schlocker in the semi-windup, took a beating from Al Grunau.

Billy Evans SAYS

Baseball produces many unusual situations that are difficult of explanation.

Fourteen years ago Pitcher Vean Gregg was the sensation of the minor leagues.

Pitching for Portland, Ore., in the Pacific Coast league, Gregg established a minor league strikeout record certain to stand for years.

In 395 innings he struck out 367, nearly a player an inning. For the 44 full games worked, his average was 3.34 strikeouts per game —truly remarkable.

Gregg was drafted by Cleveland in 1911 and in his first year as a big leaguer won 23 games and lost only 7—a feat duplicated by few minor league stars in their major debuts.

Gregg had a great curve ball.
He worked it overtime. His favorite stunt was using a curve with the count three and two.

One of his best stunts as a big leaguer was striking out 19 men in a 13-inning game in a city series with Pittsburgh. Fourteen of the strikeouts came in the regulation nine innings.

Never Saw Better Pitching.

I was one of the umpires in that game and regard that exhibition of pitching as the greatest I have ever seen for all-round effectiveness. Gregg was pressed the limit to win by Claude Hendrix, working for Pittsburgh, the final score being 1 to 0.

It is a peculiar coincidence that Gregg, never a good hitter, should have won that game through his batting efforts as well as his pitching. His double in the 13th inning, followed by a single, sent over the only tally of the game.

Bob Emslie, dean of major league umpires, worked the game with me as the National league umpire. Bob has been looking them over for 40 years or more. In the dressing room, after the game,
he remarked:

"Never saw an individual performance to compare with it. What is more, I never expect to see one."

Some tribute from the veteran
Mr. Emslie!

Does Great Comeback.
Excessive use of the curve ball, hardest of all deliveries on the arm, plus a failure to take the game seriously, caused Gregg to drop from the big show years before his time. Then came a trip to the minors.

Finally, Gregg dropped out of the pastime entirely, said he was through for good. He remained out a couple of years, but the lure of the game was too much. Last season he joined the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast league, the organization where he first gained fame.

GIBBONS SIGNS FOR TUNNEY TITLE BOUT

Championship Go Assured
For Nov. 21 If Gene Agrees to Terms

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Articles signing Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, to defend his title against Tommy Gibbons in Madison Square Garden on Nov. 21 are expected to be signed today.

One-half of the match was closed late yesterday when Tex Rickard's terms for a percentage of the gate receipts were accepted by Eddie Kane, manager of Gibbons.

Reports that Gibbons was demanding $100,000 were denied by Rickard and by Kane. Rickard offered a percentage of the receipts in compliance with the rules of the boxing commission and it was accepted.

Billy Gibson, who handles Tunney, said several days ago that Tunney wanted the match but he insisted that Tunney was worth more money than Gibbons. Rickard made him an offer, told him to take it or leave it and went to Saratoga Springs to look over Luis Angel Firpo, who is there training for his coming fight with Harry Wills.

The first to congratulate Miss Helen Wills, national tennis champion, after she had successfully defended her title against Mrs. Molla Bjurest, Mallory at Forest Hills, N. Y., recently, was Molla herself, as shown in the upper picture.

ifornia girl won easily, in 6-1 and 6-3 sets. In the lower picture Helen is shown with the cup presented to her in commemoration of her victory.

SHORT SPORTS

Yesterday's hero: Frank O'Rourke, Detroit infielder, drove over a run in the twelfth inning with a triple and then stole home, beating the Yanks, 8 to 6.

Arthur Wells, rookie outfielder from Wichita Falls, got a double and three singles and figured in four runs giving the Cubs a 7 to 2 victory over the Robins.

Cooper let the Braves down with three hits and the Pirates won, 3 to 0.

George Kelly got four hits in four times up and batted in three runs helping the Giants win from the Cards, 6 to 4.

Seven runs scored in the first inning enabled the Athletics to beat the Browns, 13 to 6.

Two runs pushed over in the eleventh inning after the score had been tied up in the ninth gave the Phils a 5 to 3 victory over the Reds.

Wamby's double knocked in two runs and enabled the Red Sox to beat the Indians, 5 to 4.

EVERS GETS ROOKIE

The White Sox have obtained an understudy to Eddie Collins in Ray Morehart, brilliant second baseman of the Flint team, Michigan-Ontario League. Morehart comes well recommended. He is said to be a fair hitter, stellar fielder and one of the fastest men in minor league play. This is his third year in professional baseball.

CITY TROPHY PRIZE IN SCHOONER RACES

Six to Start Over 6-Mile Course at Newport and Balboa Tomorrow

The City of Newport Beach trophy for schooner and similar class sail boats will be raced for tomorrow. Starting from the bell buoy at the entrance to the harbor the course will be laid over six miles, passing the Balboa and Newport piers.

Six entries have been scheduled and many more are expected to be on hand when the race begins.
The event will be a handicap race and schools, yawl ketches and other larger craft will be in the running. A committee of which W. C.
Warrington, J. M. Webster, H. M.
Worcester, E. C. Gardiner and George Vibert are the members who will have charge of the event.

Another event on the same day will be the "Bang and Go Back" race which will start from the pavilion at Balboa and will be run over a bay course. This event will be in charge of J. A. Beek and a committee of workers.

In the afternoon at 4 o'clock a race for small sail boats will be held from the Southland Sailing club pier. This race will be a free for all, with four special prizes for boat races by girls and for youngsters. Four silver trophies will be presented by the City of Newport Beach for this event and the committee will arrange the various features of starting, course and finish.

Other races are planned for August 31 when it is hoped that the Fishermen's race for commercial fishing boats can be held.

HELEN IN BID FOR THIRD COURT TITLE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 23.—
Miss Helen Wills, national and Olympic singles and doubles champion, will bid for her third national tennis title here this afternoon.

Paired with Vincent Richards, the Olympic singles champion, the 18 year old California girl will meet
William T. Tilden and Mrs. Molla Mallory, last year's champion in the final round for the mixed doubles championship.

In the final for the men's doubles championship Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, the star Australian Davis cup player, will meet Robert and Howard Kinsey, the California brothers.

Kinks o'
the Links

Has a player the right to send his own caddy to stand at the hole while he plays a stroke, the intent, of course, being to aid his sense of direction in trying to sink his putt?

A player always has such a right. The caddy, however, must stand motionless and in no way endeavor to influence the wind on the direction of the ball.

What are the official distances for computing par scores?

Holes up to 250 yards, par 3; 251 to 445 yards, par 4; 446 to 600 yards, par 5; 601 yards and upward, par 6.

In playing a match under the Nassau system, what is regarded as the proper number of holes to play, 9, 18 or 36?

All matches under the Nassau system are of 18 holes.

LAYMAN PROVES POOR STUDENT, FOR SPARR

'Professor' Jack Teaches

FIGHT RESULTS
Jack Sparr won from Joe Layman.

draw.
Eddie Benson, Battling Powell—draw.

Babe Orton stopped Knockout Anderson, first round.
Walloping Wilson won from Allan Harlan, decision.

K. O. Goldsmith, Joe Hutchins—draw.

BY RINGSIDER

It's "Professor" Jack Sparr now.
Jack probably doesn't know what that title means but we're giving it to him anyway.

Professor Jack disseminated to Joe Layman a public lesson in boxing in a four-round seminar at Kid Mexico's College of Swat at Huntington Beach last night.

He showed Layman how to uppercut, cross, chop, jab and in-fight. He gave instructions as to shooting both for the head and the torso. The Professor also delved deeply into the science of how to make the other guy miss. Layman, however, proved a poor pupil. He tried desperately but he most always was in the way of Sparr's quick, even if steam-lacking punches.

Takes Every Round
Professor Sparr took the first, second, third and fourth rounds.
If they allowed five-round bouts in California he also would have won the fifth period.

Tom Talbert, well known citizen of Huntington Beach, chairman of the Orange county board of supervisors and candidate for the state senate, was at the ringside. He got a noisy reception and responded with a nice little campaign speech.

They gave Eddie Benson a draw with Battling Powell, a colored lad.
Powell won easily. Benson wanted to duck out twice, claiming a foul, but Referee Tom Jones rightfully made him go through with the bout.

They opened the show by calling the K. O. Goldsmith-Joe Hutchins affair even. Hutchins, another colored boy, won all the way.

Walloping Wilson was so much better than Allan Harlan that they had to give the former a decision.
Babe Orton hit too hard for Knockout Anderson. A right to the body at close range sent Anderson to the mat early in the first round.

The judges picked the easy way
three times last night.

Williams Forgotten

They called the Frank Ward battling Williams go upstairs. Williams won, three rounds to one.
The big Mexican fellow is slow and terribly awkward, but he had it on Ward at that.

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

BELTS FOR THE DIP

Style, like an absconding cashier, travels in circles, coming back to where it started. It appears, disappears, reappears with almost rhythmic regularity. Most of the fashions of today, such as wide bottom trousers, are revivals of other days—an old dish served with a new sauce. While this, however, applies to general styles,
it is not so true of sporting styles in which swimming may be included. Swimming styles are a recent and remarkable development brought about by the popularity of this pastime among young men who do not "bathe" unenthusiastically, but who plunge in and strike boldly forth for the waves and attention.

The introduction of the swimming suit known as the "coast-guard" or "professional" type, because it is built for business, has necessitated the designing of belts which properly and picturesquely set off such a suit and make it look as trim as it feels. Thus, the brilliantly striped, waterproofed belt now disputes supremacy with the plain white canvas belt, long the standard for water sports.

The three belts, reproduced here, give a good idea of the styles most prevalent this season for swimmers. The first is the narrow web belt with a bright stripe spanning the center. The second is the wide belt of white waterproofed webbing. The third is the vivid belt in college, club, regimental or blazer stripes worn with solid-colored trunks and, often, to match the cross stripes upon one's swimming shirt. All these belts are correct; it is an affair of preference, not propriety, which one you might select.

Of course, the brilliantly striped belt should only be adopted by the youngster, who has the sparseness to "carry off" so extreme a style with a bit of swank. It looks rather silly upon the older man, whose figure has bumps where dents ought to be. This is equally true of those broad-striped swimming shirts, which shine out like the setting sun upon a copper roof. Appropriateness to one's years and lines is a fundamental part of the creed of correct dress. Never pretend to a youthfulness you don't possess.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 23—
President Coolidge has decided to take a far more active part in the campaign than was originally mapped out for him by campaign managers.

He will accept speaking engagements within a reasonable distance from Washington, selecting from a flood of invitations those which appear to offer the best opportunities for explaining his own views.

Mr. Coolidge has recognized his opponents are making a fight on fundamental economic issues and he believes that personal utterances will emphasize his stand on them more than when broadcast by his army of stump speakers. This he feels was demonstrated by the receipt of his speech of acceptance.

The president will make his first speech in Washington at the national congress August 29, just before returning from his vacation in Vermont. Acceptance of this speaking engagement was announced last night. Another speaking date he has accepted in September sixth at the dedication of the statue of Lafayette in Baltimore.

Conferees between the President, William Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee and C. Bascom Slemp after the return from Vermont will decide where other addresses are to be made.

A bare room over the general store here today will see the first press conference of the trip.

This meeting will mark the end of the President's monastic seclusion here. He is thoroughly rested and is now devoting his time equally between official business and vacationing. He takes long walks in the mornings and spends the afternoons in attending to national matters.

Confidence in the organization of which Coolidge is executive.

The club teatime is the outgrowth of the opening of a beauty parlor and girls' smokeshop at the edge of the university campus. Announcement that the shop's avowed purpose was the providing of a place where fair coeds may smoke cigarettes to their hearts' content has precipitated a discussion that has leaped the bounds of the campus and has become a Berkeley-wide topic of controversy.

Mrs. Easton herself, says: "I am not a hypocrite! I smoke and whether or not I'm president of the Mothers' club doesn't make any difference. We can't lay down a set of rules for everyone to follow. I'm sorry that my remarks have caused so much excitement and there is one thing I do want to make clear—I do not believe in overindulgence."

Mrs. Josephine Perry, past president of the Mothers' club, represents the middle-course element in the organization. "Let the girls of the college settle it themselves," she urges. "They are capable of protecting their own morals. We can't expect to dictate to young people and expect them to keep our confidence."

As for the coeds themselves, they do as they please despite the wordy wrath the tobacco puffing has precipitated.

'FAGS' IMPERIL COOLIDGE WILL SPEAK ON FRIDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Because she smokes cigarettes and doesn't see why U. of C. coeds shouldn't smoke 'em, too, Mrs. Kimball C. Easton of Berkeley, president of the University of California Mothers' club, probably will be asked to resign her office as Mrs. Addie Billings, east bay attorney, is leader of the club faction which will fight for Mrs. Easton's resignation at the next meeting of the organization.

"If she smokes, herself, that is a personal matter," admitted Mrs. Billings, "but as president of a club which is pledged to watch over the morals of the young people of the state, she cannot take the attitude she has and expect mothers of California to have confidence in her."

Mrs. Easton has recognized his opponents are making a fight on fundamental economic issues and he believes that personal utterances will emphasize his stand on them more than when broadcast by his army of stump speakers. This he feels was demonstrated by the receipt of his speech of acceptance.

The president will make his first speech in Washington at the national congress August 29, just before returning from his vacation in Vermont. Acceptance of this speaking engagement was announced last night. Another speaking date he has accepted in September sixth at the dedication of the statue of Lafayette in Baltimore.

EVENING SALUTATION

"Resolve to be thyself; and know that he who finds himself, loses misery."
"Sign of what man can compass, spite of an adverse state, Still, from thy rocky summit, teach us to war with fate."

TALBERT FOR STATE SENATOR

In the light of full and fair investigation and careful and conscientious consideration, The Register unqualifiedly supports the candidacy of Tom Talbert for State Senator.

By training and experience Mr. Talbert is well qualified for the position, and his character and ability are such as to insure his independence of action and conscientious performance of duty.

Other things being equal, Orange County voters would and should naturally prefer an Orange County man for the important position of State Senator, and in this instance other things are more than equal.

As to the "violation of the old agreement" between Orange and Riverside Counties, providing that the counties should take turn about in the matter of the State Senatorship, we are strongly of the opinion that no one need feel any moral obligation on that score. There is no such agreement. More than a quarter of a century ago when Orange County had about one-fourth its present population and Riverside County had less than half the population it now has—and when these two counties alone composed the Senatorial District—such an agreement was entered into by the machine politicians of those days. But time alone would abrogate any such agreement even if the primary election law did not make its operation impossible. Moreover Imperial County is now a part of the District and is entitled to consideration. And anyway who will claim either the political or the ethical right of a few machine politicians—most of whom are now dead—to impose their will upon posterity?

At all events and from whatever angle the matter may be viewed, we have these facts: that Tom Talbert is a candidate; that he is an Orange County man, our fellow citizen, our friend, our neighbor; that he is capable, an indefatigable worker, a man of fine character, a go-getter; that he has splendid training for public service and by reason of his public spirit and good citizenship he is entitled to our support.

NEW HOSPITAL DRIVE

We believe that success will crown the campaign for the sale of hospital stock that has been scheduled for the latter part of September.

Santa Ana needs a new hospital. That is a statement that will not meet with argument. While the local hospital is well managed, it is too small. A larger, modern building is needed.

The selection of Col. S. H. Finley as campaign manager in itself spells success for the effort. Col. Finley on numerous occasions has proven a master hand at carrying out difficult undertakings.

The hospital association owns its lot, which is well situated at the corner of Grand and Washington avenues. It is our hope that by the first of November construction of the new hospital will be under way.

FORD'S TALK ON HYGIENE

Henry Ford, in his latest pronouncement, delivers an interesting and useful lecture on hygiene. Comparing the human body, naturally enough, to an automobile, he declares his belief that men in the future will live to be 100 or 150, "because they will keep the carbon out of their systems."

"After all," he continues, "the human machinery is like an engine. Keep that machine in tune and it will wear almost indefinitely. I wouldn't be surprised if I lived to be 100. I'm learning how to live. Take the matter of eating. Most people don't know how to eat—they eat too much—but they will learn."

True talk, no doubt! Yet doesn't it seem just a bit inconsistent, coming from the great flivver manufacturer? Wouldn't it be a little more seemly if Mr. Ford, before giving the public such advice as this, based on motor hygiene, would perfect his illustration by producing a motor car that would "keep the carbon out of its system" and be so much "in tune" that it wouldn't shake itself to pieces, and would make the most effective and economical use of its own fuel supply?

With all due respect to Mr. Ford's car and various other cars, it must be said that in mechanical efficiency, as matters stand, they still come far short of the human body.

General Dawes says he will not talk until he has something to say. A good rule for general use.—Pittsburgh Gazette Times.

SPOONS STILL SAFE

The press of the world, it appears, owes an apology to the American advertising men who were received recently in the Elysee Palace, in Paris.

It is stated officially by a French senator that the guests did not steal the historic gold spoons used on that occasion. The report that several spoons were missing after the reception was merely a French joke. This assurance is given in reply to an inquiry from the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, which felt their honor assailed.

French humor often does elude Americans. This jest got pretty deep under the hides of its victims, and of Americans in general, because it hit at a notorious American weakness—the eternal quest for souvenirs.

It is pleasant to know that the honor of our advertising men is vindicated. With that fact established, it may be just as well to let the point sink home, and recognize that Americans do get in bad abroad by the careless assurance with which they accumulate souvenirs, regardless of the rights and feelings of the owners.

Campaign Is Launched

Pasadena Star-News

With formal notation of General Charles G. Dawes of his nomination for the Vice Presidency, and with his vigorous formal acceptance of same, the Republican national campaign is launched fully. Both candidates have spoken with vigor and candor. General Dawes' speech, characteristically forceful, was a plea for "progressive conservatism," which he argues is embodied in the Republican platform and in the attitude of Mr. Coolidge toward public issues.

From now on the issues will be joined. Platforms are known to the people. The candidates have declared themselves. The campaign is open. It will be vigorous. All three of the major parties will strive valiantly for success in November.

Messrs. Coolidge and Dawes enter the campaign with the record of the Republican administration in their favor. There has been a vast deal of good work accomplished since 1920. And the solemn pledge of the Republican candidates is given, to give common sense, honesty and economy the reins in governmental affairs.

Mr. Coolidge, in his one year in the White House, has been consistent and successful in striving for business-like economy in government and for rigid adherence to the national budget system. Additional relief from the burdens of taxation is promised and confidently may be expected. The Republican party and its candidates stand staunchly and unhesitatingly on the important issues of the day.

The Republican administration has been and is successful, and under it the country is tranquil and is enjoying a fair measure of prosperity, with much greater thriving in near prospect. The Republican record, the Republican platform and the Republican candidates are before the people, for judgment in November. Those of Republican faith believe that the verdict at the polls will be favorable to their party.

Imperial's Answer

San Bernardino Sun

Probably never before in the history of California politics has there been equalled the demonstration that was tendered yesterday to Congressman Phil D. Swing when the populace of the Imperial Valley moved to San Diego to tell that city definitely and once for all that Imperial County wants the All-American canal, and desires returned to congress the author of the Boulder Canyon bill.

All eyes have been on Imperial Valley since various interests opposed to Mr. Swing threw a smoke screen about the canal feature of the bill, and sought to convince the rest of the district that the people of Imperial did not want the All-American canal.

So Imperial yesterday moved to San Diego, the center of the fight against Mr. Swing, and there told San Diego who it wants for congressman.

Five out of six mayors of Imperial Valley cities issued a proclamation declaring the day a holiday. The valley yesterday had fewer people than on any day in 10 years. Ninety per cent of the merchants signed agreements to close their stores, the highway was a solid procession of automobiles. The parade had been on for two days as thousands of machines left Saturday and Sunday. It was Imperial Valley's answer to the propaganda regarding Congressman Swing and the All-American canal. It was a wonderful answer.

A Cure For Wanderlust

San Francisco Chronicle

Yes, Gerald Baer of London is right, California is, as he says, the cure for the wanderlust. After one has seen all the world except this blessed land, and finally reaches California, he does not wish ever to go anywhere else. If he likes to gaze out over a great ocean we have the biggest ocean there is. If he likes to climb mountains we have a large assortment adapted to all ages, all sexes and all conditions. If he likes to bask in the sunshine the California variety of sunshine is confessed by all Californians to have no equal. If he enjoys fog we defy the world to show fogs more refreshing and inspiring than we have every little while right here in San Francisco.

And, incidentally, California is the best place there is to get rich in or to enjoy riches more laboriously accumulated elsewhere.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

THE ART OF LIVING LONG

You were likely interested in reading about Chauncey M. Depew having another birthday, and that he is now past ninety years of age. You have read many of his short anecdotes and perhaps some of his speeches.

I often wondered how he kept himself in shape physically, and also mentally, when I realized that he was attending evening "dinners," and making speeches there, at least five nights a week for many years. Added to this was his daily grind of executive work as the head of the largest railroads in the world.

I got the impression that it was perhaps his extremely acute sense of humor that was carrying him along; also that it was because he actually refused to think that any day in the past was ever as good as today.

Further, he believes that tomorrow will be even better than today. Not knowing how the outlook on life acts upon the whole system including the appetite and digestion, this was the explanation to me of his ability to go through with so many dinners.

However, on the occasion of his nineteenth birthday, he told a number of newspaper friends some of the "secrets" of keeping young. After a hard regular day's work at the office he would go home, take a short nap, and then prepare his speech as he walked up and down the floor of his reference library.

When he arrived at the banquet room he did two things. First, he arranged with the chairman that he be called upon early in the evening so that he could always be sure of getting home at eleven o'clock. Then as he sat down to eat, he simply partook of those foods which "experience" had taught would agree with him, and he avoided everything else on the bill of fare.

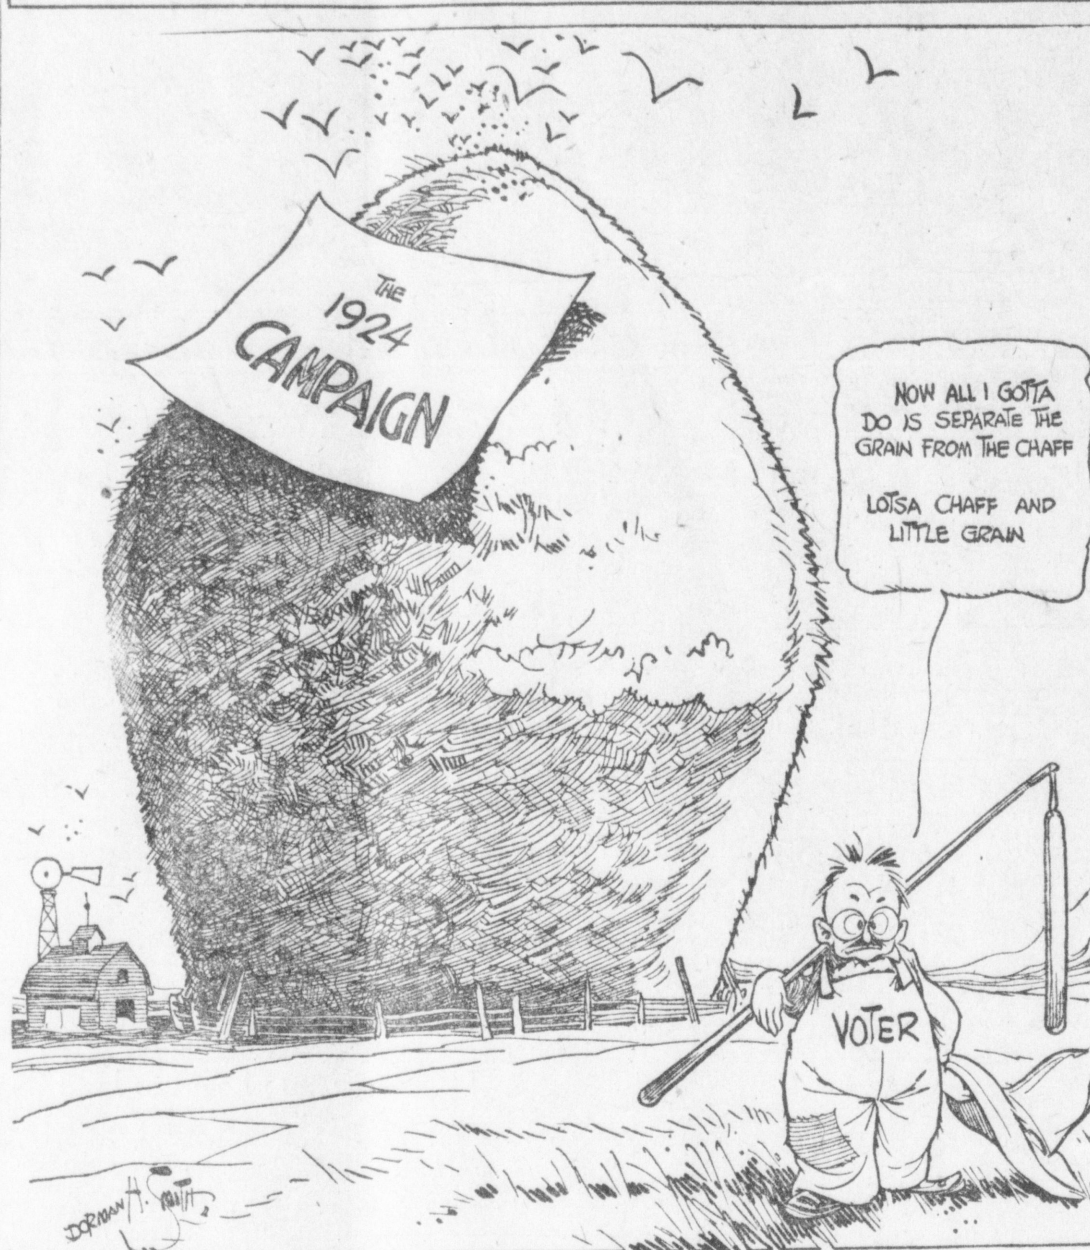

So, you see, Depew's system for attaining not only long life, but an enjoyable long life, was very simple. He rested a few minutes after his daily routine, got, as he said, a "different set of intellectual muscles working," ate just the kinds of food that he knew he could safely eat, and got home and to bed in good time.

Added to this was his wholesome and humorous outlook on life.

There is nothing new to you nor to me in this, is there? But the whole point is this, as he himself says, "I had the will to do what was wise in regard to my habits of life."

Nothing to learn then. Just the will to be wise. (Metropolitan Newspaper Service)

Comes Now the Threshing

A LAMENT

O World! O Life! O Time!

On whose last steps I climb,

Trembling at that where I had stood before;

When will return the glory of your prime?

No more—oh never more!

Out of the day and night

A joy has taken flight:

Fresh spring, and summer, and winter hoar

Move my faint heart with grief, but with delight

No more—oh never more.

—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

Little Benny's Note Book

by Lee Page

Ma got a letter from Ant Fanny today about little Herbit, saying in it, Dear Pawleen. I almost entered Herbit in a baby show last week and I am sure he would of won the prize, because he is as adreaf ahed of other children in genrel appearrants as other children are beneath him, but he was kept out of the contest by red tape.

In other words the woman in charge of the contest wouldn't allow Herbit to enter, merely because the age limit was 2 years and Herbit through no fault of his own happens to be 3 and slightly over.

However, I've met people of that type before, so I was all ready and prepared for her objection, so I sed to her, Now look heer, I sed, I admit Herbit is more than 3 legally, but theoretically he is izent event 2 yet, I sed.

Naturally she wanted to know how I made that out, so I told her. Firstly and in the first place, wen Herbit was an infant he did practically nothing but sleep from morning till nite, and even wen he opened his mouth to let food in, half the time he dident open his eyes, I told her. That went on for at least 6 months, I told her, wich would automatically take the first 6 months off his age.

And then from the ages of one to 2, I told her, he had all the favorite diseases of childhood from measles up and mumps down, and for practically half that time he was unconscious, wich automatically takes off 6 more months, and there never was sutch a child for taking naps in the afternoon, so if you take away all the hours he's slept out of his little life in the afternoon that brings him down to less than 2, so please put his name down as an entry, I told her.

Well would you bleeve it, Pawleen, the woman just looked at me as if she had never seen me before, wich of corse she hadent, for that matter, but you know wat I mean, and do you know wat she had the stupidity to say after my long explanation?

Sed, Well wen was the child born? And rather than stand there argewing with a woman of sutch low mentality, I gave her one look that would have spoken volumes to enyboddy of any sents, and took Herbit away. Trusting your good health will improve, your affectionate sister Fanny.

"What do zebraw look like," asked Nancy.

"I know what you mean now," said Nancy. "They look like ponies, don't they?"

"Yes'm! Just exactly," said Weeny. "They used to walk along in the circus parade pulling Cinderella in a silver slipper."

"I remember," cried Nick. "Do you suppose they'll let us ride them?"

"Wouldn't be surprised a bit if they did," said Weeny. "Why, here we are, and Mrs. Zebra were out sunning themselves on a nice grassy spot in front of their house when the travelers arrived. But they were not alone. A tiny zebra about knee high to a duck was playing around and kicking up his heels like a spring lamb."

"Hello, Weeny," called Mr. Zebra. "I just kind of thought that was you."

"Well, you didn't have to look twice to see me, did you, Mr. Zebra?" laughed Weeny. "I've stopped growing, thought, and ma says she's thankful, because she always had to buy my clothes two sizes too large, I grew into them so fast."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES
The call of the wild rings in my ears.

My blood beats mad and free,
And I would shake off the shackling years.

When the Red Gods call to me,
Far from the haunts of man I'd stray—

Freedom and beauty seek,
To be met at the turn of the broad highway.

With "IRONA FOR SICK AND WEAK," Vistas of heaven-kissing pines

Yield aromatic lure;
Stark 'neath the branches, gleam the lines

"DRINK WHEATO, SAFE AND PURE."
Or if I climb to the mountain crest

Seeking a sight that thrills,
Cradled close to the swelling breast is "PENDLETON'S PRECIOUS PILLS."

Far to the Westward, the sun sinks deep
In a bed of molten fire.

As its last beams fall with a mighty sweep
On "THE FAMOUS RIDEASY TIRE,"

"NON-STAT. GOOD FOR YOUR RADIO"
Is the message by night breeze fanned,

So home to my humble cot I go
And breathe, "Aint nature grand?"

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE
"Oh gee, but I'm thirsty! I want about a gallon of cold water," declared Tall Son pausing in his work of cutting the grass around the Little Gray House which had assumed a noble height while we idled away vacation days.

And as he drank his "gallon of cold water" I was reminded of a little incident of the luncheon hour. I was sitting at the marble counter in a certain popular corner drug-store, enjoying a cold salad when a dreadfully patched and bewhiskered old Mexican came in.

In very broken English he asked for a drink of water. It took several repetitions of his request before he was understood, but with a little credit to the force at the fountain, it was only a second until he was gratefully swallowing the ice-water and ready for a second drink.

With a muttered "Gracias" he was on his way, and I sat and mused on just what the poor souls do who wander the streets of our city and know of no place where they can get a refreshing drink of water. I voiced the thought and was told that hundreds of weary folk every day stop and ask for a drink—which is never refused.

During the period last winter when the city water was condemned, the one store paid over one hundred dollars monthly for bottled water just for its customers—and those who thirsted whether they bought other things or not.

May we greet you upon our return from a vacation and take the opportunity to introduce THE COLONEL, whom we suspect of hailing from Kentucky, as famous for its colonels as for its thoroughbreds—both feminine and equine.

The Colonel is pleased to be discursive today, as is also Little Sister. He writes us without once pausing for breath, as follows:

Dear Patchwork Lady—I don't know who you are or what you do to amuse yourself in the evenings; but here is a hope that it isn't by playing bridge. Or that you are not taken out to bridge parties when sleep is what you want more than anything else in the world.

And then if you are dragged to a bridge party, and draw for a partner, add get one who opens up the conversation with "you know I'm just beginning and you'll have to excuse me if I pull any bones," or words to that effect, and then after you have played a couple of hands, and the next hand you see you have the ace, king, jack and several small spades, and a whole hand full of hearts from the king down, and enough diamonds to sink a steamboat, with three initial honors, and then the woman on your right says "I bid one club" and you look down in your hand and find out you haven't anything but the four of clubs, so you promptly say "I double one club and the next person says, 'I pass,' and then you sit there and wonder what suit your partner is going to take you out in, and she hesitates a minute and then says "Oh, I don't know what to do," and you sit there, dumb, cause you know taint fair to talk across the board and then everybody waits a minute and then your partner says "Well, I guess I pass too." Ouch, don't that take the pep out of "lovely" evening?

And then * * * but what's the use, dear patcher lady, your evening's ruined after that anyway, ne est ce pas?

WHEN YOUR WHISTLE WOULDN'T WHISTLE

In your youth, do you remember— When you found that magic dirk, Which, 'twas rumored, could protect you

Where the darkest dangers lurk? Strange, then, tho you clutched it tightly

As you entered caverned mure, When you tried to whistle, gaily, That your whistle wouldn't work!

Strange, with this protecting magic, You should circle 'round the town To avoid the haunted cottage With it's phanoms of renown! Strange, then when you passed the graveyard

As the twilight drifted down, That, tho naught appeared to all you, Yet your whistling seemed to drown!

When the world is draped in shadows Wherein fearful perils lurk, Be the gleams of secret errors Or of bloody, warning, lurk; When, alone, your pathway leads to you

To the task you may not shirk,— Wouldn't it just help a lot, if You could make your whistle work!

I. M. A. PATCHER.

Dear Patchwork Quilt Lady:

Did you ever realize that all the patches you put in your patchwork quilt are black and white? Big Brother thinks you must have lots of black-and-white print dresses, to get so many patches. He says, "Why don't you change the color scheme? A tomato-patch for red, a cabbage patch for green, a potato-patch for a rich brown, and lots of variegated colors could be gotten from a weed-patch. While patches of rubber and leather would make the quilt stretchy and durable." But I think he was only "tunning," don't you?

LITTLE SISTER.

THE FOWLER

By Wilfred Gibson

A wild bird filled the morning air With dewy-hearted song: I took it in a golden snare Of meshes close and strong.

But where is now the song I heard? For all my cunning art I who would house a singing bird Have caged a broken heart.

NO. 18—WEENY PLAYS NURSE

"Let's go and see Mr. and Mrs. Zebra," said Weeny Elephant to the Twins. "They were very good friends of mine in the circus."

"What do zebraw look like," asked Nancy.

"I know what you mean now," said Nancy. "They look like ponies, don't they?"
